Reuther Asks U.S. Curbs On Price Boosts

Agency Would Get Data On Justifying Increases

WASHINGTON—Walter Reuther urged today that Congress require large corporations to justify their price increases in advance before a special government agency. An independent consumers council would represent the public.

The United Automobile Workers president said that such an agency should not have powers to block the price boosts but should be able to lay all the facts before the public in advance of the effective date for the increases.

Reuther made the proposal at the opening session of a hearing on auto prices before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee headed by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.).

Industry Heads To Appear

Auto company presidents are to appear later.

The series of hearings is a part of a broad study of administered prices in major industries which the subcommittee began last year.

Administered prices are those set by a company, rather than fluctuating on the basis of supply and demand.

Kefauver said in a statement prepared for the hearing that the automobile industry is the nation's "greatest single direct source of jobs and purchasing power."

He said the subcommittee had been disturbed by a "decline in automobile production and employment... accompanied by an increase in automobile prices."

Reuther's views were contained in a 110-page statement, accompanied by 29 tables, which he said he would offer for the record. He planned to testify extemporaneously.

His statement repeated the UAW's frequently stated views that increased labor costs have not been responsible for increased car prices since the end of World War II and that the profits of the automobile corporations have been exorbitant.

One effect of the public review would be to determine impartially what effect union wage demands may have in forcing price increases, Reuther indicated.

Points To Disparity

He contended that "price increases imposed by the automobile corporations have been up 55 for every $1 gained in wage increases" in the last 12 years.

Reuther said the independent consumers council would have authority to intervene on behalf of the public before not only the proposed price agency but also other government agencies whose actions affect the public interest.

The price agency plan to proposed, Reuther said, would apply only to a corporation which controls 20 or 25 per cent of the sales in its industry.

In the auto industry, this would mean that General Motors and Ford certainly would be covered and Chrysler, third-ranking producer, probably would be included.

He said he was sure the plan would have a restraining effect on most management and unions.

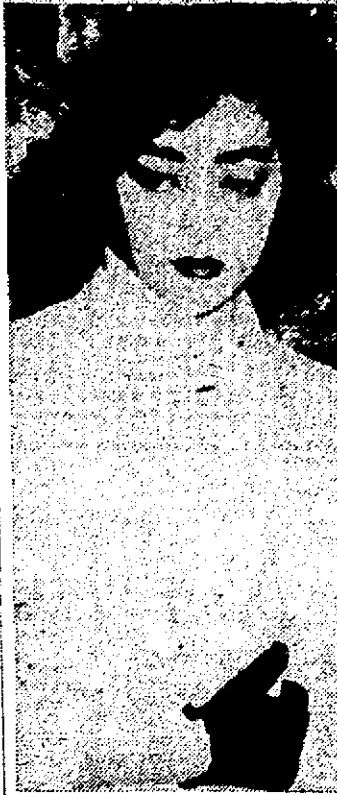

Russell Asks Hike In SAC

WASHINGTON—Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said today he is afraid President Eisenhower's defense budget does not provide sufficient military "strength in being."

He predicted Congress will increase Strategic Air Command funds.

Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said in an interview he will support a move to provide funds for purchase of additional long-range bombers while missiles are being perfected.

"We have got to step up our Strategic Air Command to increase our strength in being," he said. "Despite the development of missiles, the manned bomber is not obsolete. It is going to be with us a long, long time."

Senate Group Calls Fay In Racket Probe

Bloody Battles To Keep Him In Power Aired During Quiz

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (INS)—Senate rackets probes heard contradictory testimony today in which three Philadelphia unionists denied charges they operated an organized gambling ring with approval of labor leaders.

WASHINGTON—Senate investigators called labor racketeer Joe Fay for questioning today about the wealth and strong arm power he amassed in organized labor, business and politics.

The special Rackets Committee announced it also would explore charges that some Philadelphia officials of the Operating Engineers' Union in which Fay rose to power have misused in recently on organized gambling in that area on a "rather major" scale.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said Louis Lattanzio of Wilmington, Del., will name underworld officials of the union who allegedly got into dice, numbers and organized gambling rackets as a sideline.

The committee heard testimony yesterday linking the union's International President William E. Maloney with Fay, who rose to power as boss of its Philadelphia and Newark, N. J. locals.

Witnesses told of bloody battles inflicted, they said, by hired goons to keep Fay in power as the Maloney-backed, appointed boss of Philadelphia Local 542.

They said Fay's reign ended only when he went to prison in 1948 after he had been convicted of a $368,000 shakedown from contractors on a New York City water project. By that time Fay also was an international vice president of the union.

She and her husband George, also 37, were married when they were 17. They separated shortly after her novel was published late in 1955.

Baghdad Bloc Plans Vast Defense Setup

Fight Seen On Sharing 'A' Secrets

Durham Declares Exchange Needed To Preserve NATO

By EDMOND LE BRETON
WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Durham (D-NC) of the Senate Atomic Energy Committee said today Congress must approve the sharing of U. S. nuclear secrets with allies "if we expect NATO to stay together."

He promised speedy handling for President Eisenhower's proposals for sharing atomic data with friendly nations, and predicted congressional passage of the plan—but not without a fight.

"There is not much else we can do now," Durham said. "We have got to go along if we expect NATO to stay together and work with us."

Gets AEC Request

The joint committee received Atomic Energy Commission recommendations for amending the Atomic Energy Act in line with Eisenhower's plans for making available to allies nuclear information, raw materials and weapons components—but not complete weapons.

Durham said he was impressed during a trip to Europe last summer by the extent to which neutralist sentiment had spread even in the NATO countries, and by the need for vigorous action to renew enthusiasm for the Atlantic Alliance.

"It ought to be made clear that this is not a proposal to give things away," Durham said. "It is a question whether we will cooperate with our own allies and make considerable savings by doing it."

The proposed amendments would give the President discretion to turn over weapons data to allies whenever he determined that the proposed cooperation and the communication of the proposed restricted data will promote and will not constitute an unreasonable risk to the common defense and security."

Would Remove Restrictions

The amendments also would provide for transfer of atomic materials to allies without the present restriction that such materials may not be used for weapons manufacture.

As for actual weapons, the amendments would allow the non-nuclear components to be turned over to allies, but the United States would retain control over the atomic portions of its own weapons.

Rain General In East Area

By The Associated Press
Snow and rain again plagued much of the nation today with the Northeast quarter of the country getting a January dousing for the first straight day.

In the vast area from Minnesota and Iowa eastward, there was light snow. At the eastern edge of the bad weather—the Atlantic Coast—rain fell.

The greater Boston area reported flooding as two rivers—the Neponset and the Charles—went out of their banks. Both were at flood stage with the Neponset expected to rise two feet over flood stage and the Charles three feet over flood stage.

Couple And Child Found Slain In Shabby Home Outbuildings

LINCOLN, Neb.—In shabby Mrs. Bartlett by a former marriage, and Charles Starkweather, 19, a friend of Carol, who lived at the Bartlett home, were found to have been killed by a bullet.

It said, "Stay away. Everybody is sick with the flu."

"No. Busch knocked. He received no answer. Then he went around the house to a chicken coop, thinking someone might be there. He found the body of Bartlett, wrapped in paper.

Solons Split Over Raising Debt Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee appeared to be sharply divided today over how much to raise the national debt limit.

Some members were backing the recommendation of President Eisenhower for a five billion dollar jump in the present 275 billion ceiling—a proposal passed last week by the House 328-71.

But Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), the chairman, came up with a counterplan to hold the increase to three billions, and this also attracted support.

Both would make the increase temporary to June 30, 1959.

An informal check of the committee indicated that as of now, Byrd might win five or six votes besides his own. Eight votes are necessary to win in the committee.

Secretary of the Treasury Anderson told the committee his cash balances had been running too close for comfort at times, and that more of the same was in prospect for the weeks directly ahead.

Further, he said that his job of trying to manage the huge public debt efficiently was made almost impossible by lack of enough margin for contingencies.

But Byrd contended that Anderson's predecessor George M. Humphrey had been able to scrape by with less margin than the present secretary is seeking.

The Virginia senator said his proposal would give Anderson three billions of cash balance at all times, and still leave him between $4,900,000,000 and $12,700,000,000 of leeway under the ceiling in the next 18 months.

Anderson had asked for 3½ billions of cash balance and an additional three billion for flexibility and contingencies.

Expert Declares 'Going Steady' Proves Harmful

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Going steady at too early an age can hurt a girl's chances of getting married, warns an expert on the subject of the unwed woman.

"It stunts her intellectual and social growth," says Dr. Richard H. Klemer, 39, associate general director of the American Institute of Family Relations.

Dr. Klemer, interviewed at the institute, added that after a girl passes her early 20s, going steady is desirable if she wants to get married.

Ike Will Fly To Brother's Final Rites

KANSAS CITY (AP)—President Eisenhower will fly to Kansas City tomorrow for funeral services for his eldest brother Arthur James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said in Washington details of the trip will be announced today.

The funeral was set for 1 p.m. tomorrow at Stine and McClure Chapel. There will be services later in New York and the body will be entombed there. These arrangements are not yet complete.

Arthur Eisenhower, a banker in Kansas City for 50 years before his retirement in 1955, died at his home of a heart attack Sunday night. He was 71.

All four of his brothers will be here for the funeral. Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, is expected to accompany the President from Washington. Earl Eisenhower, a publisher at La Grange, Ill., and Edgar Eisenhower, who lives at Tacoma, Wash., are due in Kansas City today.

A daughter, Mrs. Katherine Roueche of Amagansett, N.Y., arrived last night.

Ingrid's Mate Asks Marriage Annulled

ROME (AP)—Roberto Rossellini has asked a Rome court to annul his marriage to Ingrid Bergman. The actress is not contesting the Italian film director's suit.

Rossellini claimed Miss Bergman was "still technically married" to Dr. Peter Lindstrom when she married the Italian film director by proxy in Mexico May 24, 1950. Fraudulent marriage is a legal ground for annulment in Italy, where divorce is not legal.

Miss Bergman received a Mexican divorce from Dr. Lindstrom Feb. 9, 1950, the week after the birth of her first child by Rossellini.

Army Awaits Best Time To Fire Jupiter

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Army will be given a chance soon—maybe tomorrow or Thursday—to launch the earth satellite it claims it could have hurled into space in 1955, long before the Russian Sputniks.

In the wake of the Navy's latest failure to get its Vanguard satellite rocket off the ground, new activity around the Army's Jupiter-C launching pad indicated today that this missile now has the go-ahead and is close to its firing time.

Many experts have expressed the opinion that the Jupiter-C, a creation of the German scientist Werner von Braun, has a better chance than the Vanguard to put the first American "moon" into orbit around the earth.

The first Vanguard blew up on its firing pad here Dec. 6 after an immense publicity buildup. Last week, a four-day effort to shoot a second Vanguard ended in failure.

Bad weather and mechanical difficulties were blamed.

Following that attempt, the Vanguard was dismantled and there seemed no chance that it could be put back together and readied for shooting for several days. That cleared the way for the flight of the Jupiter-C.

Funds Urged By McElroy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense McElroy told senators today that "on the whole our military position is sound." He also urged speedy appropriation of more than a billion dollars to step up programs for ballistic missiles and related defenses.

McElroy was leadoff witness in a closed-door session of the Senate Appropriations Committee on an emergency money bill containing 1½ billion dollars of new funds plus transfer authority on 150 million of old funds.

The measure won unanimous passage in the House last Thursday and is expected to get similar Senate treatment, possibly with some additions.

Five-Nation Group Gives Report O.K.

Strategic System To Cost Billions In Several Years

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—The Baghdad Pact Council of Ministers today approved long-term plans for a strategic system of roads, ports, airfields and radio communications. If carried out, the project will cost billions of dollars over a period of several years.

The five-nation conference—with Secretary of State Dulles sitting as an American observer—okayed the plan in approving the report of the pact's military committee.

Other aspects of the committee's report were not immediately disclosed.

Seek Unified Command

Informed sources said the group was moving, however, toward turning the military planning group into a full-blown unified command. An Iranian move last year to set up a NATO-type command failed to go through because of proposals that Iran's King Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi become the supreme commander.

The secret parts of the military committee's report were believed to have recommended:

1. That any major assault from the north must be met as far as possible in the craggy mountain passes between Russia and Turkey, Iraq and Iran.

2. National forces of the regional Muslim members, who also include Pakistan, must be developed and modernized although not necessarily with nuclear weapons.

3. The United States and Britain, the other two participating nations, will speed supply of conventional arms which may become surplus to needs of their own forces—including warships, fighter planes, radar warning equipment, antiaircraft missiles and tanks.

Agree On Broad Strategy

The military planners already have agreed on the broad strategic lines of Middle Eastern defense now that the United States has assumed a firm commitment to join in repulsing any attack from the north.

That commitment was reaffirmed by U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, who told the opening session of the conference the alliance "can be confident that mobile power of great force would as needed be brought to bear against any Communist aggressor."

Russ Red Boss Urges Delay On Tougher Issues

MOSCOW (AP)—Still plugging for a summit conference, Nikita Khrushchev proposed last night that government heads start with issues "we can agree on before tackling the tougher and more basic problems."

The Communist party boss was talking with Western ambassadors at an Indian National Day reception. He spoke with the good humor he usually displays on the Soviet capital's cocktail circuit, in considerable contrast to his blarney in a speech last week in White Russia.

He did not say just how the Soviets and the Western Allies could agree on which smaller issues they are likely to agree on.

Rains Bring Flood Peril

BOSTON (AP)—A flood along the Charles River grew today as rain and light snow pelted New England for the fifth straight day.

The Charles surpassed the flood stage two days ago and was expected to crest three feet above flood level by tomorrow.

Several bridges spanning the river have been closed and numerous streets in Great Boston communities along the river were under several inches of water today.

The heavy rains caused a section of a Boston & Maine Railroad roadbed to give way at Somerville, and was blamed for derailment of six cars of a 119-car freight train.

Young Death Causes Stock Trade Flurry

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street yesterday took the suicide of Robert R. Young in stride.

The major excitement spurred by the colorful financier's death came early in the day.

The stock market ticker was delayed an hour and 27 minutes in arranging an opening in New York Central stock. Young, who took his own life at West Palm Beach, Fla., last Saturday, was chairman of the railroad.

Brokers reported an avalanche of orders, on both buying and selling sides, for Central stock and it took time to arrange the opening price.

New York Central finally opened at $15.37, off 12 cents from Friday, and closed at $15.50, unchanged. It was the third most active stock on the list.

Allegheny Corp., Young's railroad holding company, reflecting a Supreme Court decision, scored a smart gain. It was the day's most active stock with a volume of 80,000 shares. Allegheny opened at $4.25 a share on the New York exchange, off 25 cents, but it closed at $5.25, a gain of 75 cents for the day.

The rally in Allegheny came after the Supreme Court threw out a lower court decision that had prevented Allegheny from issuing 6 per cent preferred stock. This had been part of a program to pay off the dividend arrears accumulated on the 5½ per cent preferred.

A series of suits by a minority group of Allegheny stockholders had thwarted Young and the company from exchanging the company's old preferred stock for a new issue.

A three-judge federal court will now have to decide whether an Allegheny preferred stock issue violates the Interstate Commerce Commission Act.

U.S. Red Exchange Seen Easing Cold War

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Anywhere from 500 to 2,000 Soviet tourists, scientists, wrestler and what-have-you will be visiting the United States during the next two years under a monumental U.S.-Soviet exchanges agreement.

The accord, signed yesterday at the State Department by Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin and U.S. negotiator William S. B. Lacy, was hailed on all sides as a possible thawing trend in the cold war.

President Eisenhower welcomed it and, in a statement, expressed hope that its carrying-out might contribute substantially to the betterment of relations between the two countries, thereby also contributing to a lessening of international tensions.

The United States had to settle for a half-measure on exchanging radio-television broadcasts. But officials said they were content with that because it showed the Soviets are willing to move, however cautiously, toward easing the Iron Curtain.

Agreement was reached to have sporadic censored radio-TV broadcasts on current events, with each side holding a veto over what could not be used.

Another U. S. disappointment was Soviet refusal to agree to quit jamming Voice of America broadcasts to the Soviet Union in the Russian language.

On the other hand, the Russians showed a direct New York-Moscow air service so they could show off their sleek new TU104 jetliner. The United States demurred, pending, officials confided, the time when the United States also will have sleek new jetliners in service on commercial airlines.

The Soviets lost out too on their call for swapping visits by American Congress members and deputies of the Supreme Soviet. They also wanted, but did not get, a meeting of interparliamentary or United Nations groups.

Jury Finds Melvin Not Guilty

A jury in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday afternoon deliberated 30 minutes before returning a verdict of not guilty in the case of Joseph M. Melvin, 519 Virginia Avenue, charged with illegal sale of whisky.

Stuart N. Rosenbaum, this city, was foreman of the jury of nine men and three women which returned to the court room about 5:20 p. m. to announce its verdict to Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, who presided at the trial.

James Roy Lewis, a cab driver described by attorneys as a "reluctant" witness in the case, testified that he went to Melvin's second floor apartment in the early hours of last August 29 and purchased two half-pints of blended whisky from Melvin for three passengers in his cab.

Two of the three passengers testified but they could only state that Lewis returned to the cab with the two half pints of whisky which he had been given $5 to purchase. He returned with the two bottles and $1 change.

Police Sgt. James W. Brown was called as the second state witness by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher and his assistant, James S. Getty. He testified about picking up Fred Tusing and Victor Bohn, both West Virginians, and Mrs. Irene Landenberger, this city, after they created a disturbance in a parking lot off Henderson Avenue about 3 a. m. last August 29. Two half pints of whisky were in Tusing's truck at the time.

Mrs. Landenberger and Bohn both testified that they rode with Tusing in a cab from the Lover's Leap service station in The Narrows to a service station at the intersection of Laing and Virginia avenues. It was there, they said, that Tusing provided the $5 which the cab driver took with him, returning in about 10 minutes with two half pints of whisky. The driver then returned them to Baltimore Street.

Tusing was called as a state witness but was not in court to answer the call.

One odd note to the case was the calling of County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya as the lone defense witness. He usually is a prosecution witness. Thomas N. Berry, Melvin's attorney, questioned Lilya about the photograph he took of the building adjacent to the service station in which Melvin has his apartment. The county investigator said that the entrance to the apartment is only 25 feet from the end of the service station lot where the cab was parked.

There were three counts in the indictment which had been returned against Melvin by the grand jury last October. Judge Harris found Melvin not guilty of the second count, which charged him with selling whisky to persons unknown. The jury then acquitted the Virginia Avenue man on the first count of illegally keeping whisky in his possession.

In his closing argument to the jury, Berry suggested that a number of prominent citizens of Allegany County might be indicted on the same charge faced by Melvin. Whenever a resident runs out of whisky over the weekend and obtains a bottle from a friend or neighbor, the friend might be charged as was Melvin.

Perry was sentenced last July 25 to serve four consecutive one-year terms in the Maryland Reformatory for Males for three auto larceny cases and one of burglary.

Perry asked for a writ of habeas corpus on the grounds that he had been arrested without a warrant when a state trooper entered his home May 24 without permission. Judge Harris says this contention

45.8 Million Expended On Shore Roads

FEDERALSBURG, Md. (AP) — Gov. McKeldin last night gave Eastern Shoremen a "progress report" on road building in the nine counties on this side of the Chesapeake Bay.

He said the State Roads Commission had either spent or committed $45,867,000 on the Shore in carrying out the first four years of the State's 12-year highway modernization program.

The figure includes contracts under construction as well as those advertised in the latter part of 1957 but not yet awarded.

Most of the mileage improved has been on 154 miles of secondary roads, he told the Federalburg-Denton Rotary Club. But two thirds of the money has been spent on "the more expensive and more spectacular projects on the primary road system."

Chief among these has been completion of the Blue Star Memorial Highway through Queen Annes, Kent and Cecil counties to Warwick on the Delaware line.

Other major projects include reconstruction of U. S. 213 in Kent County, dualization of U. S. 50 in Queen Annes and commencement of the Salisbury throughway, dualization of U. S. 13 throughout the lower three counties; rebuilding of route 40; and by-passes of various cities.

Parking Expensive

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP) — Edward I. Cole settled up with the city recently for a few collected parking tickets. The bill levied in Municipal Court came to $143.40 for 11 tickets accumulated over a three-month period.

should have been on a motion for a new trial or on an appeal but not on a writ of habeas corpus.

W.Va. To Make Full Use Of Federal Road Funds

CHARLESTON (AP) — Gov. Underwood told the people of West Virginia last night that his administration's state highway program would make full use of 97 million dollars in federal funds.

The governor said in a radio-television "Report to the People" that this sum available under the interstate highway program would be completely used up in improving means of transportation within the state in five or six years if the Legislature would support his recommendations.

The governor warned that if more state funds were not appropriated to keep up with increasing federal highway aid, "many other road needs in West Virginia" would have to be sacrificed.

He said the money needed would have to come from allowances that would otherwise go for maintenance, resurfacing and major repairs to highways; the second-ary program; and the beginning of a "backbone" system.

Underwood maintained that the state had sufficient resources to avoid these "sacrifices."

Under the interstate highway program the federal government provides 90 per cent of project costs. Through this program West Virginia has immediately available 64 million dollars. Another 33 million will become available later this year.

To take full advantage of this money, the administration has proposed expenditures of approximately 19 million dollars a year. Underwood said. "This schedule would use completely the amount of federal money appropriated this year and would wipe out the backlog over a period of five or six years."

But the Democratic majorities in both houses have been cool to the proposals put forward by the administration.

OUR COUNTRY
The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union forever.—Morris.

Yen For Freedom

WHEN EVEN the beginnings of freedom come to another nation on this earth, it is an event to be hailed by all who prize liberty for themselves. In that spirit, Venezuela's overthrow of the Jimenez dictatorship is warmly welcomed everywhere in the free world. Freedom becomes more secure as it expands its borders, and suffers as they contract. It will be no small advance if free men can now find at their side a nation so well fortified in resources and a people so full of promise of growth and development.

LIVING ALMOST within the shadow of the United States, the Venezuelans know that the virtues of freedom are no false legend. Moreover, it is clear now that the urge to be free burned within them even while they endured the whiplash rule of the dictator. Their first stirrings were put down. But they refused to be denied. A fresh revolt was sparked, and broke its bounds. To Americans, who cherish the role of the press as one prime guardian of their liberties, it must seem especially fitting that the bloody civil war fighting which led directly to Jimenez' downfall was led by a Venezuelan newspaper reporter.

AS SO OFTEN in Latin American rebellions, a military junta is temporarily in command. It has made a good start by turning loose a thousand political prisoners, decreeing amnesty for exiles, and instituting other reforms. Venezuela's bold thrust against tyranny will not be complete, however, until there are free elections and a new government thus chosen. This part of the story is still to be told. But the opening chapters are greatly heartening. There cannot be much doubt that the vigorous and talented people of Venezuela wish with all their hearts to become enduring members of the family of free nations.

Tennis Patience

AMERICANS, naturally loath to admit that there is anything other countries can do better, may have to make an exception in the case of tennis. For the third year in a row Australia has won the international Davis Cup. This might not of itself be alarming. It has happened before. Between 1926 and 1936 the cup stayed abroad, for six years in France and four in Britain. From 1950 to 1953 Australia was supreme. What dismays American followers of tennis is that apparently an entirely new crop of first-rate players must be developed. The two leading Australians, Mal Anderson and Ashley Cooper, are only 22 and 21, and should have several years of topnotch play ahead of them. On the other hand, our best players are older or else planning to go into business. One possible exception is Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio. He was on this year's team and is thought by Pancho Gonzales, the world's top-ranking player, to have more promise than either of the two Australians. But it takes more than one good man to win a Davis Cup. Americans may have to be patient. And that might, though discomforting, be good for our souls.

The Need Is Urgent

IT IS NO SECRET that the country's commercial airlines are generally getting into more and more difficult financial straits. They have appealed to the Civil Aeronautics Board for rate increases of varying proportions, up to nearly 20 per cent. This is not the place to argue the merits of their case. But it would seem to be no prejudice to the matter, one way or another, to urge CAB to make up its mind with more than the usual dispatch it exhibits in rate cases. What the agency is trying to decide is whether the lines' obvious plight is temporary or long range. If temporary, then CAB would be disinclined to approve higher rates, contending that a rise in business levels will pull the air carriers up without that. If long range, steeper rates might be endorsed. The lines, standing on the threshold of heavy commitments for costly jet planes, need to know where tomorrow's dollars are coming from. Their plea for swift action would seem fair by any sensible measure.

Noel Coward Likes To Write For Himself

NEW YORK — "Ask me anything," said Noel Coward. "I'll answer everything, though of course you probably couldn't print it."

The British actor-playwright laughed at the notion that he could ever be unprintable or un-repeatable.

"Except on TV," Coward sighed. "The censorship on TV makes dialogue impossible — you can't talk about anything adult."

"Why, when I did my play 'Blithe Spirit' on TV some writer complained that we had used five obscene words."

"You know what the five words were? Drink, gin, damn, hell and bed. And I must say it would be awfully difficult to go through life without saying any of those five words."

HAVING disposed of printability, Coward provided some more answers without waiting for questions.

"I shan't discuss finances," said the world's most successful writer of sophisticated comedies. "Money bores me absolutely to death. I like the things it brings, but money as such bores me."

Then why is he knocking himself out as star of not one but two of his own plays on Broadway, appearing in "Nude With Violin" and "Present Laughter" on alternate nights?

"BUT I'M enjoying this enormously," said Coward. "I wrote 'Present Laughter' for myself but had to cancel the first production in London because of the war. If I'm deliberately writing for myself, I provide my own sort of atmosphere, what you might call light comment on my own life."

"I recall it took me six days to write the play — usually I need only four or five. I think about my plays for a long time, but do the actual writing at high pitch. If it flows easily, I know it's good. But if it takes time and I have to make alterations, it's generally a bad idea."

COWARD, WHO insists on limiting his stage appearances to 12 weeks only, is taking his shows to San Francisco and Los Angeles next month.

Straws Point To Runaway Congress

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — With this session of Congress less than a month old, there are strong indications that President Eisenhower will get less of his legislative program enacted than in any of his first five years in the White House.

Rep. Richard M. Simpson, chairman of this year's Republican congressional election committee, told the GOP dinner rally in Washington what the administration's score was:

In the Republican-controlled 83rd Congress, 1933-4, over 70 per cent of President Eisenhower's program was approved.

In the Democratic-controlled 84th Congress, 1935-6, only 46 per cent of the President's program was approved.

In 1937, first year of the Democratic-controlled 85th Congress, the score went down to 37 per cent.

A further drop in 1938, second year in the 85th Congress, would mean that two out of every three Presidential recommendations to the new session would fall by the wayside.

WHAT HAS happened is that a largely Democratic-inspired revolt against Eisenhower policies and leadership has developed in Congress in spite of the President's personal popularity.

The revolt is receiving silent-partner support from some of the GOP Old Guard conservatives who in the past have just gone along with the new Republicanism for the coattail ride.

There is a strong feeling among Democrats that they will sweep the 1958 congressional elections.

No one is predicting how many more seats the Democrats will win. But they are counting on larger majorities than they now hold—three seats in the Senate and over 30 in the House, with a couple of vacancies.

Republicans won't openly admit belief in this trend. But many of the candidates for re-election are preparing to run scared. First reports reaching Washington on the series of GOP dinner rallies which President Eisenhower addressed from Chicago by TV, failed to eliminate the scaredness.

THE President's talk was considered a good restatement of his ideals. But it was not seen as the fighting speech that had been promised to send party workers faring out to coral votes.

The dinners raised badly needed cash for the GOP. But they were attended entirely by Republicans. And the talks failed to convert many Democrats, which the GOP must do to win.

This year's Democratic revolt was sparked by Sen. Lyndon Johnson's criticism of the administration's defense program before President Eisenhower's State of the Union message.

It has now been supplemented by congressional proposals for atomic-powered satellites for outer space control. Introduced by Democratic Senators Anderson of New Mexico, Gore of Tennessee and others, they go far beyond anything proposed by Republicans.

The resulting chastisement which Secretary Ezra Taft Benson got from the Senate Agriculture Committee indicates the bitterness of Democratic opposition to administration farm policy.

THE recommendation for a five-year extension of reciprocal trade agreements is meeting opposition which may cut it down to three years or less, even with new escape clauses.

Administration plans to cut back on welfare grants to the states and to transfer some welfare responsibilities from federal to state governments are natural for congressional opposition due to opposition from home. Other administration-suggested economies in public works and reclamation meet similar objections.

It is an even bet that Congress will vote appropriations totaling more than the 74-billion-dollar budget requested by President Eisenhower. This will be a complete reversal of the economy drive of last year, in which Congress cut administration requests by an estimated five billion dollars.

In fact, all signs now point toward a typical, election-year, runaway session of Congress. There's no telling what will finally emerge, after bitter feuding by Capitol Hill against the White House, even though the President won't fight back.

NEW YORK — You read an overwhelming mass of prose, some sage, some foolish, about our vaulting out into space any one of these decades and you'd think it was something new to read it all.

In heaven's name, not to make a pun on a cousinship, where else have we been for somewhere between two billion and four billion years?

Our planet is in space and always has been since the day it was created by whatever means suit your awe, philosophy or science best. The wide time-gulf between two billion and four billion years cited above you can blame on scientists: they don't know which is the exact age of mankind's own, our very own, ancient, reliably and blithely spinning space vehicle.

THERE'S A NEW place on 56th Street, east of good old Fifth Avenue (and whatever happened to all the gilt, gingerbread and jaunty banners celebrating its 30th year) which is first and last a sandwich shop, a small niche in a big building. But it, too, has a thoughtful sign: "The Earl of Sandwich's Invention Served in a Chic Way."

Come, come, boys, no Restoration rhetoric over a Swiss-on-rye, please.

Peter Grimm is President of a group of superb and sleek hotels tied down on enchanted islands, and he isn't taking a back seat for Connie Hilton or any other hotel tycoon.

Come February 1st he is flying a selected group of typewriter players to Puerto Rico for a black tie explosion, thence to Haiti for another revel and, finally, to Ciudad Trujillo for a final jamboree, leaving up to his guests which of three days they choose to return in, for a possible total of nine days of frolic.

Peter, real thanks for the invitation, but no can do. Take the lady I suggested as an alternate.

ALL THE little practitioners of the New York acting technique known as The Method are quivering with dreams and ambitions these days. They have just learned that their Top Member, Marlon Brando, was offered $1,000,000 to perform in the film, "Ben Hur."

The Method goes like this: If a playwright calls for an actor to drink a glass of water, an ordinary actor picks it up, puts it to his mouth and drinks.

A Method actor gets up, warily circles the table on which the glass rests, three times, reaches for it twice with an air of "Should I?" and then, having milked the occasion of every possible nuance and emotion, deigns to drink the water with an air of, "I don't think this gesture fits my character as written."

THE MAN WHO wrote "Waiting For Godot" has a new play opening in New York tonight. It is called "Endgame" and if you want to know what Sam Beckett's new play is about, it is about a blind man who bleeds from the eyes.

He is sitting in a large wheelchair and keeps his spiritual parents in two adjacent ashcans from which he has the lids removed now and then so he can look at them. . . London's Harold Hobson described it as a play filling all save idiots with a "profound and sombre and paradoxical joy."

I read it late the other night and my bid is in: I have asked for a ticket down among the idiots.

Frederick Othman
Future Dim? Blame Taxes

WASHINGTON — The question now before Congress is: Why shouldn't people who work for themselves save up for their old age?

There's only one reason why not; the tax collector takes the money away from them first. The pullers of teeth, the spiliers in court and the builders of bridges, among numerous others, said this wasn't fair.

Their theory in a couple of hours of eloquence before the House Ways and Means Committee was that the self-employed man never can build up a pension for himself, while the man who works for somebody else usually has a pension account that grows bigger the longer he works. They said this not only was discrimination, but rank discrimination.

I BELIEVED them. So did the lawgivers. There was only one stumbling block — the U. S. Treasury. It said it couldn't afford the passage of a couple of bills which would allow the businessman and the professional to deduct 10 percent of his income up to $5,000 a year for a pension to be spent in his own old age.

Well, sir, it developed that about a year ago a wide assortment of lawyers, dentists, engineers, accountants, veterinarians, funeral directors and real estate agents organized the American Thrift Assembly for the sole purpose of getting Congress to allow a fellow to pension himself.

THEY SELECTED as their chairman our local legal light, F. Joseph (Jiggs) Donohue. He introduced to the Congressmen his panel of pleaders. He also presented a sad little saga entitled, "Keeping Up With The Joneses." This concerned the Messrs. Jones and Smith, druggists who both earned $6,000 a year.

Jones worked for somebody else, who had a contributory pension plan which added to his account $1,146 a year. This was untaxed, and the way counselor sacrifice in terms of reduced federal aid programs—water projects, hospital construction, school classrooms, farm aid. Congress may balk at that, may insist on restoring some of the cuts.

If it does so, the alternatives will be either increased taxes or a budget in the red. Whatever happens, keeping abreast of space age developments is going to be the costliest venture this nation has ever undertaken in time of peace.

Donohue calculated, he had a net income, after paying his taxes, of $9,546.

Poor old Smith, on the other hand, ran his own drug store. All he got was tax bills. At the end of the year his income was $5,400.

CAME THEN Dr. Roger F. Murray of Columbia University of New York (a salaried man, fortunately) who agreed that the self-employed man is out of luck. He estimated there were about 7,500,000 of these, and he said most of them couldn't possibly provide for their own declining years.

Next was George F. Geffs, who identified himself as a country lawyer for 37 years in Janelle, Wis.

"Father Time has rolled the clock so far around that if this bill were passed today, it would have no effect on me," he said. He told some unhappy tales of young lawyers (anybody aged 45 is young to Attorney Geffs) who were taxed so thoroughly they had no chance of saving anything for the future. He said farmers were in the same boat.

ROBERT VOGT of Cincinnati said consulting engineers like himself weren't happy about their pensionless future. Dr. Floyd W. Pillars, the Des Moines, Ia., dentist, said he did believe the fillers of teeth also should be allowed to retire, like the lucky people on wages.

He had some interesting figures on the income of the average dentist, who never earns more than the $14,447 he gets when he's 44 years old. As he grows older, his fees diminish rapidly.

MITCHELL M. Shipman, New York attorney, said all this was fine, but wholesale salesmen, whose association he represents, ought to be included. They draw wages, all right, but hardly any of them have pension programs.

Later on, maybe, when the world's at peace, the Treasury will relent.

Hal Boyle
Reporter's Notebook

By THOMAS OCHILTREE
For Hal Boyle

LONDON—if your Christian name is Thomas do you sometimes get the uneasy feeling that you are a member of a dying tribe?

Go to any cocktail party and you will run into three or four Bobs and as many Bills, but how often do you see another Tom?

After all it's an ancient name—the name of one of the Apostles. Every language in Christendom has its form of the name.

But do people in the English-speaking world call any of their boy children Tom any more?

Writers to the editor of the London Times—willing as they always are to cast light into dark places—have taken up the question of what has become of the fine old name.

IF WE KNEW, it would give all us surviving Toms a sort of melancholy glamour—like being one of the last of the Mohicans.

J. W. Leaver started the Times' correspondence with a letter listing the most frequent Christian names given children whose birth or adoption was announced in the newspaper during 1957.

Among the boys, John headed the list as it did in 1956. It was followed by David, James, Charles, Richard, William, Christopher and so on—but Thomas was nowhere in sight.

Ernest Barker—presumably a friendly neutral since he is not one of us—subsequently wrote that the great days for Thomas came before the middle of the 12th century.

"The name Thomas came in with the Norman conquest, flourished after the martyrdom of a Becket and faded with the Reformation," Barker suggested.

According to his theory the name was a medieval ring to many modern ears. Name a kid Thomas, then, and his friends will wonder where he left his sword and prancing charger.

PRESUMABLY the falling off in the name is about the same on both sides of the Atlantic even though Americans have Thomas Jefferson, one of the great Founding Fathers, and the English have Sir Thomas More, lord chancellor, scholar, author and wit who was executed in 1535.

Thomas Bodkin, a true member of this vague fraternity of Toms, showed how things have gone recently in a letter to the Times.

"The name Thomas has usually been borne by some member of my own family since the Bodkins took their place among the Twelve Tribes of Galway in the 12th century."

"If I am asked why I have failed to maintain this tradition I can only reply that my wife demurred to having any of our five daughters christened Thomasina, and I hoped until it was too late that they might have had a brother," he wrote.

"All five are now the mothers of sons, not one of whom is a Thomas."

George Dixon
Washington Scene

WASHINGTON—Nearly every time he appeared before the Senate Select Committee on Small Business, Administrator Wendell B. Barnes boasted that his Small Business Administration suffered an exceptionally small percentage of bad loans. Senator Russell B. Long, of Louisiana, second ranking member of the committee, kept retorting that this was due to Barnes' being too tightfisted with money.

The lawmaker continued hammering at Barnes to be more liberal with his loans to "little fellows" whom the banks had turned down. The senatorial pressure was so persistent that when a small operator doing business in Gonzales, La., under the piquant name of the Dart-Win Panto Co., applied for a $50,000 loan, Barnes granted it against his better judgment.

Dart-Win Panto went broke. As soon as he received the bad news, Administrator Barnes grabbed a phone and told Senator Long:

"You've been wanting me to make bad loans. Well—I've just lost my pants—my Dart-Win Panto in Gonzales."

But Senator Long was not fazed. He interrupted the spluttering SBA chief to remark:

"At last you're doing your job!"

ON THE SUBJECT of Louisiana Senators, the state's senior Solon Allen J. Ellender, went gallant at the conclusion of the Women's National Press Club dinner the other evening. He offered to drive Kay Ray, New Orleans newspaperwoman, home.

"My car is parked just across Connecticut Avenue," the lawmaker assured the young lady. He failed to locate it, however, and led Miss Ray another block, and then another. By this time she was thoroughly congealed beneath her decollete gown.

After a third block of peering at parked vehicles, Miss Ray asked with teeth chattering:

"Just what kind of car is it?"

"Why," replied Senator Ellender, "it is a beaten-up 1951—no, it isn't! I just got a brand new car today! I've been looking for the old one."

I CAN'T IMAGINE what he is afraid of, but Acting Chief Melvin H. Leach, of the U. S. Park Police, has just sent this memorandum to Lieut. Joseph T. Wirth:

"In the event of a serious emergency occurring during my absence, when you are in charge, do not break into the weapons cabinet. This is an order."

"If your need for heavy weapons is so urgent that you cannot await the arrival of your official with the key, you are authorized to borrow weapons from the Metropolitan Police, or some other neighboring agency."

"Until such time as the SOP order and the key are made available, proceed as follows, in real and genuine emergency situations only:

"Make sure that the situation is one requiring the issue of heavy weapons."

"Call me (or Chief Stewart, if you cannot reach me). If neither can be reached call Capt. Selby. All have keys. Any one of us will come in and take charge, if some emergency necessitates calling us."

In the event one of our United States parks is ever attacked by armed forces, Lieut. Wirth can always tell the invaders:

"Kindly withhold your fire until I can get a key from Acting Chief Leach, Chief Stewart, or Captain Selby."

Slayer Local Man Gets Life Prison Term

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Raymond Clifford Cook, 22, yesterday was sentenced to life in the State Penitentiary for the murder of Eugene F. Dombrosky, formerly of Cumberland.

Dombrosky, a fellow worker and drinking companion of Cook's, was shot to death and robbed on Good Friday, April 19, 1957, as he walked home with $90 he planned to use to buy Easter gifts for his wife and nine children.

His empty wallet was found discarded in a sewer not far from where the body was found.

Cook pleaded guilty last Tuesday in the middle of his jury trial in Criminal Court. Judge Anselm Sodaro, after hearing the rest of the evidence, entered a verdict of first-degree murder.

State evidence disclosed that Cook and Dombrosky had been drinking together at several taverns and that Cook had attempted to sell his friend a .43 caliber pistol. Dombrosky produced his wallet but then decided not to buy.

Local Police Arrest Three In Theft Case

City Police last night cleared up another breaking and entering in which $25 in silver was taken from a local service station last week end.

Richard Rank, 20, of 204 North Centre Street, Robert Hager, 18, of 320 Cecelia Street, and a 16-year-old local boy were arrested by Officer Harold Gibson.

Upon questioning by Assistant Chief B. Frank Gaffney and Detective Harry Iser, the trio admitted to the breaking and entering and theft of money from Powers Service Station, corner of Henderson Avenue and Charles Street, police said.

The two older youths are lodged in the city jail while the younger youth was taken to the detention quarters of the Allegheny County Infirmary pending further investigation by the state's attorney's office.

Police said about $50 had been overlooked by the intruders. They said the breaking and entering occurred about 1 a. m. Saturday. It was reported by Leo Powers, operator of the station

Cost Of New Bridge Set At $235,620

Scheduled to be opened for traffic late this spring, the new Baltimore Street bridge across Wills Creek will cost the City of Cumberland a total of $235,620.50.

This figure, according to C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, includes $28,620 for the construction and removal of the temporary wood-bridge span which is being used to carry light traffic across Wills Creek while the new bridge is being built.

At the request of the City of Cumberland, the construction of the Baltimore Street Bridge was incorporated into plans for Section 4 of the Wills Creek phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control program.

The cost of the bridge is included in the $2,854,253 bid of the Hazelwood Construction Company, which received the go-ahead from the Corps of Engineers for the contract in May of 1956.

At one time, city officials were thinking of letting the contract for the bridge before flood control work reached that point in Wills Creek.

One reason why the city did not accelerate the work is that under such timing, it would have had to put a temporary bridge between the end of the steel, which was set in place last week, and the west abutment of the old bridge, which was on a line with the east face of the Algonquin Hotel.

A dirt fill will be placed for this section as work progresses. A glance at the superstructure of the new bridge makes it clear that the new steel girder bridge will be considerably shorter than the old reinforced concrete bridge.

The new span will be 94 feet, four inches long but considerably wider than the old span, as it will have a 42-foot roadway and eight-foot sidewalks on either side.

Iron workers yesterday were busy on the bridge site, riveting

Houser weighs 252 pounds, the same as he did when he enlisted. He hopes it fits when he retires from the armed services in 1961.

Doctor's Combination of Ingredients Stops Stomach Gas Before It Starts

Refills, N. Y. (Special)—Thousands of people who suffer from gassy stomach, heartburn, belching, after meals and other symptoms of acid in-

Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.
Containing not just one or two, but a special combination of 7 ingredients, this famous medicine is designed to stop stomach gas before it even starts.
Instead of upsetting the stomach, as too frequent use of soda and alkalis often does, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery actually promotes more normal stomach activity.

gestive system and helps you avoid gas pains, heartburn and sour stomach. Once your stomach is working properly, you can eat what you like without distress.

BALTIMORE (AP)—James C. Bennett, 36, a motorist who demanded a blood test after police accused him of drunken driving, was convicted of manslaughter by automobile yesterday.

Judge R. E. Oppenheimer sentenced the defendant to one year in the House of Correction for the Oct. 24 death of Layton Chambers, 52-year-old pedestrian.

Results of the test Bennett had demanded were used as evidence against him in the Criminal Court case. They showed his blood had an alcohol content .19 per cent. State experts testified anything above .15 means the subject is under the influence.

Bean Backs Three Road Fund Bills

CHARLESTON (AP) Senate President Bean (D-Hardy) introduced yesterday three bills designed to increase the state's annual road revenue by about $3,075,000.

Bean said he was introducing the measures so they would be available for finance committee study "in case we find that some new revenue for roads really is needed."

The Legislature's Democratic majority has indicated an interest in providing only such new road income as might be needed to insure the state against a loss of federal funds available on a matching basis.

Specifically, the majority — particularly on the Senate side — wants to make certain the state loses no federal money available under the interstate highway program under which the U.S. Government pays 90 per cent of project costs.

One bill introduced would increase the cost of automobile operators' licenses, renewable each four years, from $1 to $4, and the cost of chauffeurs' licenses, renewable each four years, from $1 to $4; and the cost of chauffeurs' licenses, which expire annually, from $3 to $5.

Another would establish a $1-per-vehicle registration fee for all trucks, West Virginians and otherwise, operating over the state's highways.

The third proposal would set up a new scale for automobile license plates, and would boost license fees for vehicles other than passenger cars by 12 1/2 per cent.

Fifteen per cent of the revenue under the license plate measure would be earmarked for matching of federal interstate highway funds.

The new scale for passenger cars would be $17 for vehicles weighing 3,000 pounds or less; $22 for those weighing 2,001 to 4,000 pounds, and $28 for those of more than 4,000 pounds.

The Legislative Auditor's Office estimated that the license plate bill would produce $2,275,000 more a year and the truck registration $500,000.

The drivers' and chauffeurs' license measure would increase revenues by $1,200,000 over a four-year period.

The Underwood administration introduced into both the House and Senate earlier a package of six bills designed to raise 37 million dollars more a year for schools.

Those also included a proposal for higher auto and truck license fees, with a new scale of $15, $24 and $30 for passenger cars.

Truck plates under that bill would be increased in amounts ranging from $2.50 for declared gross weights of 4,000 or less to more than $20 for those of 50,001 pounds and up.

A new license bracket for gross weights of 32,001 to 60,000 pounds would be added for trucks, with a base charge of $242 plus $1.20 for each 100 pounds or fraction thereof above 32,000.

The Allegany County Civil Service Board last night conducted examinations for 57 men seeking appointment to two jobs which since Roy Van Fleet resigned in the fall.

The test for night janitor at the Court House was taken by 43 men while 14 men took the exam for constable-at-large. The examination was conducted at West Side School auditorium.

Woodward D. Pealer, chairman, and J. Glenn Beall Jr., and key, Mason T. Diehl, William J. Wilson, the Civil Service Board, conducted the tests. County Commissioner William A. Wilson was an observer.

Afterwards the applicants will report to Mrs. Joan S. Burke, board secretary, at the Court House with their numbers and their identity will then be known. Veterans will get five points added to their score under the veterans' preference program.

Boy Who Tried Armed Robbery Is Paroled

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson yesterday afternoon ordered to give his mother some of the 13-year-old Long Hill boy paroled money he tried to get from the for one year in Juvenile Court. Jewelry store.

The boy was taken to court after he attempted an armed robbery on a local jewelry store last November 22.

The boy received a hearing November 25 in Juvenile Court on a charge of being a delinquent minor. Magistrate Anderson at that time made no final disposition of the case pending the boy's examination at a mental hygiene clinic here.

Magistrate Anderson at the November hearing tried to get at the reason for the attempted robbery. It was brought out then that the youngster comes from a large family and that his father and mother are separated.

The boy said he had hoped to give his mother some of the money he tried to get from the jewelry store.

Magistrate Anderson pointed out that if the boy had been older he would face a prison term. The court also noted the mother's responsibility to the boy before turning the lad over to her custody after the November hearing.

Yesterday, Magistrate Anderson placed him on probation for a year for further evaluation of his condition at the mental hygiene clinic.

The magistrate said the boy has behaved well the past few months and apparently is making an effort to abide by the court's orders. He will remain in his mother's custody and will continue to visit the clinics for the period of his probation, Magistrate Anderson said. Further disposition of the case will be made later.

The youngster was arrested about 1 p. m. on November 22, after being disarmed by a customer in the jewelry store during the holdup attempt.

Stockyards Elect Three New Directors

Three directors were elected for three-year terms at the recent annual meeting of the stockholders of the Cumberland Stockyards Inc. at the LaVale Fire Hall.

Directors elected were C. R. Armstrong of Rawlings, Harry J. Barton of Pinto and Gay R. Stonestreet of Flintstone.

At the close of the stockholders' meeting the Board of Directors re-elected Stonestreet president, Barton vice president, James W. Bishop of this city secretary and Charles J. Blue of Springfield, W. Va., as treasurer and manager.

probation, Magistrate Anderson said. Further disposition of the case will be made later.

The youngster was arrested about 1 p. m. on November 22, after being disarmed by a customer in the jewelry store during the holdup attempt.

State Tax Hike, Spending Cuts Seen

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Maryland General Assembly Democrats, given a preview of Gov. McKeldin's budget predict heavy cuts in spending but admit a tax increase is inevitable.

Sen. Turnbull (D-Balto County), majority floor leader, said "there isn't any question that we're going to have some kind of tax increase," but hoped the governor's proposal could be cut.

In his budget message mailed to legislators during the weekend, McKeldin asked for 50 per cent increases in both the sales and income taxes in order to balance a spending program of 386 million dollars.

The sales tax would go up from 2 cents to 3 cents on the dollar and the income rate from 2 per cent to 3 per cent of net income.

Turnbull, who is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he knows of items in the budget which can be cut without affecting essential services of the state. "So far as I'm concerned, this budget is going to be cut and cut heavily," he said.

Del. A. Gordon Boone (D-Balto County), the House majority leader, said he anticipates the House Ways and Means Committee "will cut the budget to the largest extent it has ever been cut."

"Apparently the governor does not understand that the state of diminishing returns has been reached," Boone said.

Senate President Louis Goldstein (D-Calvert) said he was going to try to arrange for legislative leaders to see a department-by-department breakdown of proposed spending before the General Assembly convenes Feb. 5 for a 30-day session.

It was at Goldstein's urging that McKeldin sent legislators the

Stitcher Not Guilty; Court Criticizes

Judge Says State Failed To Prove Case On Officer

City Detective Joseph H. Stitcher today was found not guilty by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Circuit Court on charges of obstructing justice.

Stitcher had been charged with obstructing justice last October 7 by "unlawfully and corruptly" influencing Doris Ralston, 20, and Betty Lou Pryor, 19, to leave town and not testify before the grand jury.

Judge Harris said the state had not proven the charges against Stitcher. He also stated that Stitcher is guilty of "woeful lack of discretion and conduct unbecoming a police officer." Judge Harris suggested the City Police Department obtain a copy of the testimony and also the remarks of the court so the department could take whatever action it desired.

Did Leave County

The testimony, Judge Harris stated, showed the cases arose from the purchase of drinks by the two girls at Al's Chateau and the Cadillac Lounge last June 12. The girls did leave the county on October 7 and stayed away while the jury was in session, he added.

"Someone arranged the trip for the girls and paid them some money, but there is no evidence that Stitcher paid them or arranged the trip to Washington," Judge Harris commented. "Stitcher did advise the Pryor girl to stay at home and also had advised her to see an attorney, but this is not obstruction of justice," the court declared.

The crux of the entire case, Judge Harris said, was the testimony by the Pryor girl that Stitcher had called her from a phone booth October 7 and said "two men will be taking you for a ride." Stitcher denied making such a statement, the court added.

Points To Record

Judge Harris pointed to Stitcher's 13 years service on the police force and the fact he is married and the father of three children and has a good reputation. The court said it has no information as to the reputation of the Pryor girl.

Stitcher took the stand in his own defense and denied any connection with the trip out of the county taken by the two girls. He said the Pryor girl had called him the day after the incident when she had been taken into custody for a traffic violation. This was early in the morning after the girls had the drinks at the two downtown night spots. Stitcher said he was told the girl was in trouble and was asked to go to the Manhattan Tavern on the Old Furnace Road, about six miles from Ridgeley. The detective said that he often came to the assistance of persons who called him.

Tell Of Incident

At the meeting at the West Virginia tavern the girls told him of their visit to the state's attorney's office, Stitcher said.

"They said they had bragged at the time of their motor violation trial of getting drinks at the two establishments but it wasn't true," Stitcher said. They also told him, Stitcher said, that they did not want to sign a statement to that effect.

"I told them they did not have to sign any statement which was not true and to see an attorney," Stitcher said he had suggested they see Attorney William H. Geppert, who had at one time been assistant to State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher.

"I figured that Mr. Geppert was close to Mr. Fletcher and that perhaps the matter could be straightened out," Stitcher testified. It was also brought out in testimony that Geppert had advised the girls not to sign the statement at Fletcher's office.

Lack Of Evidence

Harold E. Naughton was defense counsel for Stitcher. In his closing argument he said that the state had not proven his client guilty of obstructing justice.

Naughton pointed to the lack of any evidence that Stitcher had given the girls any money, had transported them out of the county or had driven them to the meeting atop Green Ridge when James E. Earsom picked up the two girls for the journey to Washington.

The attorney stated that the only thing Joe Stitcher had done was advise the two girls about their constitutional rights in seeing an attorney and not signing any statement.

The court room was packed with spectators today and Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn sat in on the testimony.

Tax Reasons Cited In Plant Site Decision

Hyde Says duPont's Choice Not Because U. S. Owns C&O Canal

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde (R-Md., 6th) declared federal ownership of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal property was not the reason that the duPont Company did not locate on the Maryland side of the Potomac River.

The corporation built its plant in West Virginia in the Martinsburg area across the river from Washington County because "certain tax arrangements were beneficial in that state."

Rep. Hyde made the statement when he spoke this past week before the C&O Canal Club of Williamsport in Williamsport High School.

Rep. Hyde referred to the constantly reiterated statement that the canal property was the deciding factor "all that bugaboo that has been thrown up" against the proposed canal park.

Won't Scare Politically
"I won't let anyone try to scare me politically" about the canal bill, the Congressman said, "because I'm damned if I do and I'm damned if I don't."

He said that feeling is very much mixed on the question of whether the canal property should be turned into a national park, but later added that if weight of sentiment is tilted in either direction among the people, it is in favor of the federal park.

The speaker said that most of the opposition to the federal park is in Washington County, with a smaller amount in Frederick County, and only one organization in Allegany County having reported opposition to him so far. Other developments at the meeting included disclosure that the Maryland Legislature will be asked to adopt a resolution requesting return of the land to state control, announcement that petitions are being started with thousands of signatures sought from persons favoring the federal park, and action by another Ruritan Club in favor of federal control.

Two Plants Built

Rep. Hyde, the first speaker, pointed out that two giant plants have been built along the river on the Maryland shore in the past two years, the Potomac Electric Power Company plant in Montgomery County and the Pittsburgh "Plate" Glass Company factory in Cumberland, and emphasized that the bill now pending would not affect in any way the right to easements across the canal that is ordered in separate legislation passed by the House and Senate in 1954.

He said that a federal park along the river would actually represent a kind of industry that is more beneficial to communities than almost any other type, the tourist and recreation industry that is becoming one of the largest in the nation, and has the advantage of bringing in money from outside the area.

Rep. Hyde cited the case of a point along the river near Seneca where a few benches were placed and a parking lot established several years ago. He said that this has proved such a popular place that the town is already booming and expansion of the parking lot is now necessary.

Amendments Possible
Rep. Hyde revealed that amendments are possible for the bill before it goes up for vote in the House. One of these would guarantee the right to continue to use existing club buildings on the river's bank, even if they fall into the land that would be purchased for the canal park.

Hearings are tentatively scheduled for late February or early March, he said, and the committee will be glad to hear any other ideas regarding the bill.

He said that the act of Congress that would be necessary to put the canal land back into state and private ownership has as much chance of coming into being as "the proverbial snowball."

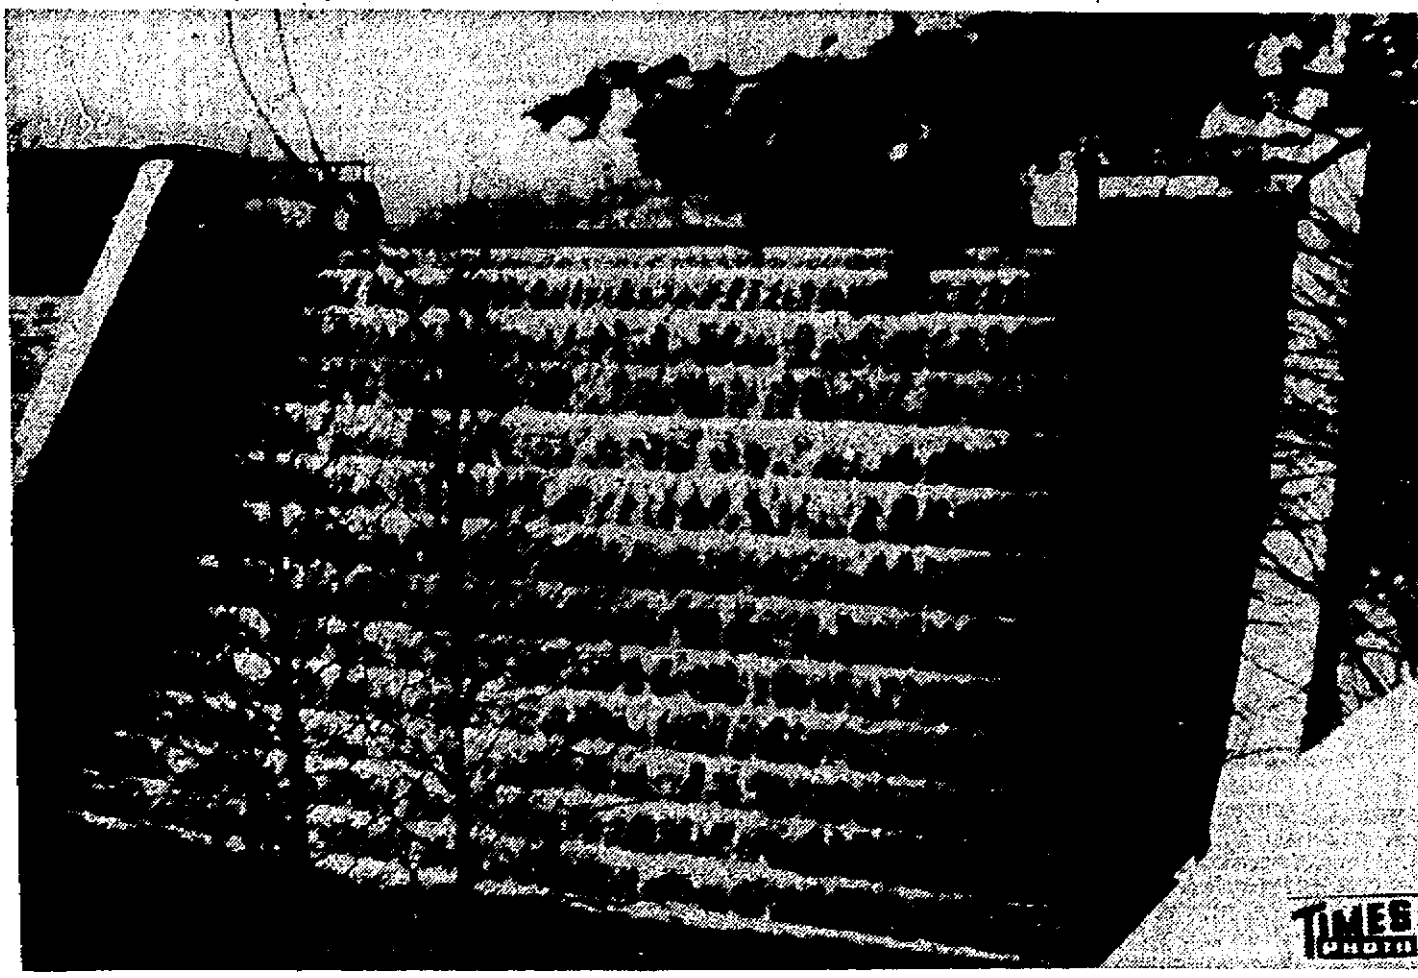

John Frye, a member of the Brownsville-Gapland Ruritan Club, told the group that petitions were started Wednesday at Brunswick, Hancock, Hagerstown and other communities in this general area, signature of which will attest to favoring a federal park along the canal. He said that several thousand names will be sought by the end of February.

Favor U. S. Development
The Ruritan representative also revealed that the Big Pool-Indian Springs Ruritan Club has passed unanimously a motion favoring federal development of the project, and a letter from Fred Siponen, district governor of Ruritan National during the past year, confirmed the fact that Maryland District had taken no formal action on its stand on the canal situation.

Court Hears Arguments In Rail Dispute

CHARLESTON — The State Supreme Court was scheduled to hear today arguments by protestants against abolishment of the Western Maryland's last passenger train run between Elkins and Cumberland, Md.

A petition was filed with the appellate court Jan. 2 appealing a Public Service Commission final order which authorized the railroad to conclude trains Nos. 9 and 10 after their final round-trip runs Jan. 5.

The Supreme Court merely will decide whether it will review the PSC order. The merits of the case were not considered.

Elkins attorney Bonn Brown filed the protesting petition on behalf of the communities of Elkins, Davis, Thomas and Parsons, as well as the Elkins Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Elkins retail merchants and the General Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen of the Western Maryland System.

The railroad, a principal carrier of coal and other freight, requested permission last spring to discontinue the daily passenger service, contending increased costs and decreased revenue made the train unprofitable.

Agreement Reached On Site Of Road

An agreement was reached today between the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and the operator of the Starlite Drive-In Theatre concerning the relocation of a roadway into the theatre grounds on Oldtown Road.

Edgar Growden, operator of the outdoor theatre, had complained last week about the proposed route of the roadway after it leaves Oldtown Road. He said the proposed road would have caused car headlights to shine on the screen.

At today's meeting, J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, and James Alfred Aviret, who leases the land to Growden, discussed the road relocation. Checking with a map of the area they finally made an agreement to have the roadway into the drive-in theatre placed at such an angle the lights would not affect the showing of movies.

The relocation work will be part of the opening up of the Messick Road through to Williams Road.

A purchase order for 5,000 gallons of gasoline from the Sinclair Refinery Company, River Avenue, was held up until Friday when Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson objected to buying from the firm.

Daniel Fleming, who operates the firm here, is a resident of Hancock and Wilkinson objected on that basis. Chapman commented that they had bought gasoline from Fleming on occasions since 1942.

Only two members of the board were present today. Commissioner James Orr and Wilkinson and a vote on the purchase order will have to wait until Friday when Commissioner William A. Wilson is present.

Ribbon Copies Facing Large Damage Suit

$100,000 Sought In Connection With Stock Agreement

AP Special Washington Service
WASHINGTON—A former Washington resident is seeking $100,000 damages from the Ribbon Copies Corporation of America in a suit involving an alleged stock buying agreement.

Daniel Price and Herman Price, both of Washington and partners in the organization of the firm, say there was no such agreement. The suit was filed by Percy G. Melville, of New York, formerly of Washington, in Federal District court here.

Located in Mt. Savage
Ribbon Copies located its plant in the old machine shop and locomotive repair buildings of the Western Maryland Railway in Mt. Savage, in the spring of 1956. But the plant did not stay in full production for too long a time. The firm is still located in the buildings.

Melville contends that in December 1955 Daniel Price gave him an option to buy 5,000 shares of Ribbon capital stock which then was selling at $1 a share. The option, he said in his complaint, was exercisable at any time within six months.

Melville said he made frequent attempts until June 17, 1956 to have the alleged agreement carried out, but the company and officers refused. During this period, he added, the stock sold for as high as $4.25 a share.

Denies Allegations
In an answer to the complaint, the company denies it entered into a contract with Melville and denies that anyone was authorized to do so on the company's behalf.

Daniel Price concedes he had some conversations with Melville, but denies he ever entered into any contract with him other than to sell him certain corporation stocks at a mutually agreed upon price during June, 1956.

Herman Price denies he was an officer or director of the company after the early part of May, 1956.

The company also denies the value of the stock during the period in question was $4.25 a share, although it says there might have been some isolated transactions at that price.

Melville said Daniel Price offered him in November 1955 a directorship on the Ribbon Copies board and the managership of the Washington area. This also was denied.

The clerk's office said depositions are being taken this month in the case.

One deposition was taken in Allegany County Court House from Peter Lukas, former office manager of the Ribbon Copies at Mt. Savage.

Snyder said all views would be tape recorded and sent to the Bureau of Public Roads in Washington to be studied. He said that public hearings on the relocating of routes are always held when federal money is involved and when a route goes past a post office building.

Snyder said definite plans for the relocating of Route 220 had not yet been made, but added that tentative plans call for its relocation through the city and joining up to the present Route 220 about two miles south of Keyser.

Moorefield Seeking
Storm Sewer Project

MOOREFIELD—Mayor P. W. Clarke and Council have requested the State Road Commission to complete the storm sewer on Winchester Avenue as a step in Moorefield's proposed new sewage system and disposal plant.

At the time the State Road Commission recapped Winchester Avenue, chips but no paving were laid to the curbs in anticipation of the storm sewer construction.

W. Va. Poet Laureate Tells Of 'Moonshine And Hunger'

CHARLESTON — Proud mountaineers could find in a new book of poetry today a suggestion that they "get rooted deep within beloved soil, let heart strings twine around the homey things."

The advice in verse came from Roy Lee Harmon, veteran Beckley newspaperman, state legislator and West Virginia's poet laureate since 1937. His fourth book of poetry, containing about 90 pieces in verse, came off the presses recently.

The 57-year-old native of Boone County, an ardent conservationist who insists he has fought for years "to keep at least a few places as most as nice as they were when God created them," once again has written liberally of his beloved hills and their people.

There also are tributes to President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers and to UMW District 23 President George J. Tiller; to Raleigh County, and to "Moonshine — and Hunger."

About 30 of the poems in the 90-page book are pieces Harmon said "the folks liked best" from his three earlier volumes.

"John only wanted mining men to live like free men...and to draw an honest wage," Harmon's tribute to Lewis observed, "Here is a man of vision, soul and grit...and reverence is used to speak his name."

"By the cut of his jib, by the strength of his chin, you know he is the kind who would never give in to forces oppressive and wrong," began the poem entitled "George J. Tiller."

"I'm sure that God was glad the day He made these West Virginia hills we love so much," Harmon started a piece entitled "God's Green Hills." Of Raleigh County, the poet laureate said: "I guess that God was in a spendthrift mood and glad to pile His finest beauties high, and so He made, in some blest interlude, this lofty land of tall oak trees and sky."

Harmon's first book, "Hillbilly Ballads," was published in 1938. "Around the Mountains" appeared in 1941, and "Up The Creek" followed in 1948.

His new volume is dedicated to Dr. Ralph Cadwallader Mitchell, of Sophia, a country doctor who, Harmon said, "has walked, ridden horseback or driven his car across these West Virginia hills for 60 years."

Dr. Mitchell, the dedication added, has kept "a song in his heart and healing in his hands to cure the ailments of my friends and neighbors."

Harmon's new "Hill Song" dwells on "a lonely pine upon a far-off peak, a rhododendron by a singing creek, the springtime tune of lonely whippoorwills, cool quiet coves and little dashing falls."

"So she's a liquor makin' lady who can't wait for charity to see her through," he said in "Moonshine — and Hunger." The poem concluded: "Go on and cast her down...do what you will...she's got nine hungry kids, and a moon-shine still."

Tomorrow isn't worth a cent "until today is freely spent," another piece observes. And there is criticism of a money grabber whose money mad "and so he never sees the dancing stars which flick the summer sky, or hears God's whisper in the evening breeze."

Of the dead in Grafton's National Cemetery, Harmon said: "They're part of time and history today, those sleeping men whose hearts have turned to dust. They kept a trust with Hope along life's way, they talked with God and dealt in faith and trust."

Harmon wrote of many other things of a rainy winter day in Charleston, of a n e r by the state's turnpike, Christmas, Easter, rhododendron, the small town snow-off, last summer's love.

But his heart probably was fullest when he began "A Conservationist's Prayer" with, "Please God, help us to understand you did a perfect job here in the hills."

Recognizing that "what's the record?" is a favorite subject whenever golfers get together, the 1958 Golf Digest Annual, now on the nation's newsstands, includes a section on unusual golf facts.

The longest drives in competition, the longest hole-in-one, fewest putts, oldest and youngest aces and the fastest round ever played are among the records noted. All PGA and Ladies' PGA playing records are also listed.

The world's marathon record (for the number of holes played in one day on a regular course) belongs to J. J. Johnston, Jr., of Fort Worth. He played 321 holes over the 6,291-yard Rockwood course Oct. 21, 1957.

Craig Wood's 430-yard drive in the 1933 British Open rates as the longest drive in championship play. Longest hole-in-one on record is a 435-yarder by George Smith at the Hermitage Country Club in Richmond, Va.

The record for fewest putts ever used in one tournament round is 20, set by Pro Chandler Harper in the 1950 Tucson Open.

Oldest American ace is George Borrowbridge, Madison, Wis., who made a hole-in-one in 1954 when he was 82. Youngest known is Gregory Glenn, Mt. Morris, Ill., eight when he got his June 24, 1957.

The fastest-played round is owned by Len Richardson, who in 1931 zipped over the 6,248-yard Mowbray course in Cape Town, South Africa, in 31 minutes and 22 seconds.

An amazing 3,187 hole-in-one were reported to Golf Digest's Hole-in-One Clearing House in 1957. That is 385 more aces than were verified in 1956.

Some 238 tee shots were holed out by women and 2,949 by men. Two king-sized aces were submitted. The longest was a 374-yard swat made by Charles Hedrick, 29, of Lubbock, Texas, at Meadowbrook Golf Course in Lubbock. George Allen, 43, of North Quincy, Mass., holed but a 365-yard boomer at Furnace Brook Golf Course at Wollaston, Mass.

Longest hole-in-one made by a woman belongs to Mrs. M. Robinson of Baltimore, who sank a 216-yarder at Bonnie View Country Club.

Other 1957 "records" in the hole-in-one department include: Oldest man: Charles F. Eldridge, 75, of Morgan Park, Ill., 145 yards at Walnut Hills Country Club, Chicago.

Oldest woman: Ada N. Carney, 74, Shelbyville, Ind., 145 yards at Vero Beach, Florida Country Club.

Youngest "man": Gregory Glenn, 8, Mt. Morris, Ill., 108 yards at Sunset Golf Course, Mt. Morris.

Youngest women: Linda Healey, 15, Camillus, N. Y., 190 yards at Bellevue Country Club, Syracuse, N. Y., and Cynthia Chase, 15, Grand Rapids, Mich., 146 yards at Cascade Hills Country Club, Grand Rapids.

Sports Keg Residue

Denny Shuck, heady three-sport star at LaSalle several years ago, is coaching Emmitsburg High School while completing his college education at Mount St. Mary's. At last report, Denny's team had an 8-2 record, the only Potomac Valley Conference race away from home, bowing 40-39 to Frederick and 57-56 to St. Mary's of Hagerstown. Denny, slated to get his degree in June, is doing practice teaching. Patsy Amato is never one to be caught short for an answer. Following the Dapper Dan dinner Sunday evening, a group of sports fans were standing around "baiting the breeze" when someone asked bartender John Lewis why he was wearing a boutonniere like the celebrities. "You mean to tell me you've never heard about his exploits," Patsy declared. "Why, he's the sleigh-riding champion of the Ritter A.C." Then he pointed to John Vocke, the roly-poly local bowler, and said: "See the Little King there, he's a cross-country champ—he'll drive all the way across the country to see a football game!" The Loyol Order of Moose team, pacesetter in the City Basketball League, has been advised that the local eagles made a tremendous hit in a recent game at Berlin. Pat A. Bennett, who promoted the game for the benefit of the retarded children's fund, wrote player-coach Don Lilya saying that Berlin fans were very appreciative of both the calibre of ball showed by the Moose and the fact that they took nothing for the trip. Paul Oberhaus, who starred with the Cumberland Dukes during the days of the All-American Basketball League, has a 13-year-old son who shows a lot of promise as a baseball player. # Valley Shoots At LaSalle's Clean Slate Tonight

Lonaconing Site of Game; Red Raiders In Home Tilt

By JIM DAY
Times Scholastic Sports Editor

LaSalle High's undefeated eagles, who had their closest call of the season last Friday before subduing a stubborn Allegany quint, 40-37, will not have any rest as they hit the basketball trail again tonight.

The Explorers have another toughie in store for them as they travel to Detmold for their return, off against the Valley Black Knights. Another full house is assured for the clash with all reserved seats being sold. Stand-by room tickets for students only will be sold.

It will be the 14th start for the North Centre Streeters who racked up their 13th victory in the spine-finger over Alco. Counting the pair of triumphs at the end of the 1956-57 campaign, coach George Geatz's hoopssters have clipped off 15 in a row.

Game Sellout

If you live in Cumberland and don't have a ticket to tonight's basketball game between LaSalle and Valley High, don't bother driving to Lonaconing. You won't get in.

Jack A. Petry, Valley principal, announced at noon today that all tickets have been sold.

One of the wins came at the expense of the Black Knights, the Detmolders of Johnny Meyers being beaten, 61-50. The triumph was the first of seven by LaSalle over WMIL teams this winter.

Valley, getting off to a slow start, dropped three of its next four outings after the opening-game loss but then rebounded and has clipped off seven of eight.

The only defeat came when Allegany bagged a 58-47 victory at Campobello. Included in the victory bag of the Knights is a 50-38 decision over Fort Hill on the Valley court. The Explorers rapped the Sentinels, 80-52, on the Hill-topper boards.

Valley will carry a four-game victory streak into the contest, having been posted against Beall (61-51), Bruce (71-42), Elk Garden (53-47) and Northern (72-42). The only other setbacks dished out to the Knights were by Keyser, 53-48, and Piedmont, 40-35. Valley also holds the only triumph over Piedmont, twisting the tail of the Lions, 53-46, in their first tilt.

The Explorers have almost a 20-point spread over their opposition, averaging 64 points per start to 44.8 for their foes. The Knights, also a top-notch defensive quint, have been hitting at a 53.8 average while limiting rivals to an even 47 markers a game.

Fort Hill Home Allegany and Fort Hill also have important Cumberland Valley Athletic League contests on tap tonight, the Sentinels playing at home against North Hagerstown. The Campers are traveling, meeting South Hagerstown in the Hub City.

Frederick and Martinsburg were slated to meet last night in a CVAL game but the contest was postponed until tonight at Martinsburg. A loss for Frederick and a win for Fort Hill would put the two teams in a tie for first place.

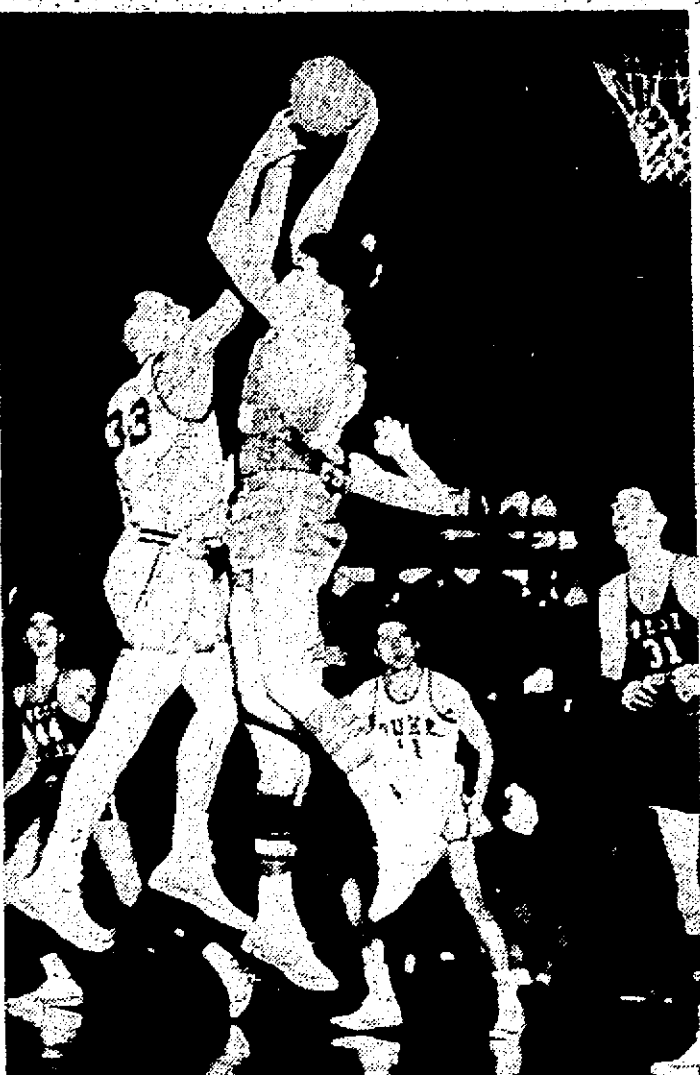

The four quintets giving Piedmont a run for its money in the blitches being one-point losses away from home, bowing 40-39 to Frederick and 57-56 to St. Mary's of Hagerstown. Denny, slated to get his degree in June, is doing practice teaching. Patsy Amato is never one to be caught short for an answer.

Time Runs Out For WVU As Duke Wins, 72 to 68

By FRED DE LUCA

NEW YORK (INS)—Top-ranked West Virginia, handed its first defeat by an inspired Duke University team, hopes to dish out the same medicine next time out when it meets St. John's, the nation's only remaining major undefeated team.

Duke's Blue Devils touched off another Blue Monday for the top court powers by staging the biggest upset of the college basketball season at Durham, N.C., a come-from-behind 72-to-68 victory over the visiting Mountaineers.

In other shockers, Houston whipped sixth-ranked Oklahoma State, 70 to 64, and Georgia Tech battered ninth-ranked Kentucky, 71 to 52. Just last Monday, three other high-ranked teams—Bradley, Maryland and Michigan State—all were upset.

Mountaineers Fight Back West Virginia, which had rolled up 14 straight wins, figured Duke as the toughest game remaining on its schedule—and the Mountaineers were right.

The Blue Devils, who now have a 50-50 7-and-5 record, led at the half, 39 to 35, and stretched that margin to 47-to-37 shortly after the second half opened.

The Mountaineers then put on one of their patented rallies and took the lead at 50-to-49. The advantage see-sawed back and forth until Duke's Billy Joe Harris hit a jump shot that gave his team a 60-to-59 edge. The Blue Devils never gave up that lead.

All five Duke starters hit in double figures, with Jim Newcome leading the way with 21 points and 14 rebounds. West Virginia's Bob Smith led all the scorers with 24 and sidekick Jerry West had 20.

Idle Until Friday The triumph continued Duke's mastery at home, where the Blue Devils have lost only four times in the last five years. West Virginia now will be idle until Friday when it plays Florida State at Morgantown.

The Redmen, rated 15th, have won all nine of their games. The Brooklyn team must get past Pitt, Temple and Brooklyn College if it hopes to meet West Virginia still undefeated.

Oklahoma State's loss was its second in 14 games, while Houston now is 6-and-8. The Cougars led by ten at the half. Ed Sutton of the losers topped all scorers with 24 points. Russell Boone had 17 for Houston.

Ninth-ranked Kentucky, going for its 19th Southeast Conference title, was the victim of a second-half explosion by the Engineers. Tech, down by two at the half, outscored Kentucky, 40 to 19, after intermission to make the game a rout.

Tied For Lead The two teams now are tied for the SEC lead with 4-1 standings. Kentucky is 12-and-4 over-all and Tech is 11-and-5.

Terry Randall had 26 and Buddy Blemker had 21 for Tech. However, Dave Denton, a lad from Adolph Rupp's stamping grounds at Bowling Green, Ky., played a vital role in the upset by collecting 22 rebounds.

Georgia Tech, like Houston and Duke, was playing on its friendly home court.

Other scores last night included Ohio State 75, Purdue 73; Northwestern 85, Minnesota 76; Xavier of Ohio 76, LaSalle 65; Georgia 84, South Carolina 63; Marquette 58, Toledo 55; Mississippi State 75, Southeastern Louisiana 61; North Texas State 59, Tulsa 57; Alabama 105, Howard 44; Seton Hall 79, St. Francis of Brooklyn 74; Idaho State 70, St. Mary's 58; Seattle 75, Santa Clara 67.

IT LOOKS BIG COLUMBIA, Mo. — (NEA) — Sonny Siebert, Missouri's top basketball scorer, is near-sighted.

Schaus Claims Pressure Not Cause Of Loss

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—"The pressure didn't beat us; Duke did," snapped West Virginia Coach Fred Schaus after a fast-breaking Duke team shattered West Virginia's 14-0 record with a 72-68 triumph.

Seeing Duke race to victory was nothing new for Schaus. Since taking over at West Virginia in 1954, he has met the Blue Devils six times—and has lost five of them.

Someone in the crowd asked Schaus: "Well, do you think the pressure's off now? Do you like it better?"

"Hell, no," he retorted. "There's no pressure off. We don't mind the pressure. Change the scoreboard, will you; we'd like it very much."

Carolina Air No Good Later in the dressing room, reflecting over his record against Duke, Schaus mused: "This Carolina air is not too good for us."

"Someday we'd like to come down here and show them we have got a ball club up there."

The victory was Duke's seventh, against five losses.

"We didn't shoot or run enough," said Schaus.

Duke Coach Hal Bradley echoed: "West Virginia is supposed to be a running team, but we had as many fast breaks as they did."

Bradley, usually noncommittal, added, "Right now, it looks like that was our greatest game. Yes, sir, that was our best. We didn't make very many offensive mistakes and the rebounding was just great."

Bradley credited much of the victory to 6-5 senior Paul Schmidt, who dogged the Mountaineers' 6-10 Lloyd Sharrar all the way, limiting him to 14 rebounds and 9 points while scoring 12 himself.

Fast Break Works Well From the start, Duke left the 7,800 fans with little doubt that the Atlantic Coast Conference's Blue Devils were out for victory. Working their fast break like a clock, the Blue Devils took the lead, stretched the margin to 11 points twice in the first half before falling back to 39-35 at intermission.

Duke came back strong in the first three minutes of the last half and again stretched the margin, this time to 10 points.

But West Virginia fought gamely, and took the lead for the first time after about eight minutes of the second half had passed. For five minutes thereafter, the teams traded buckets and the lead, then Duke regained it and never yielded.

Sharrar Blocked Out Schmidt did a fine job of blocking out Sharrar on rebounds. That's why he (Schmidt) didn't get many himself—he was doing what he was told. Every time the ball went up in the air, it was his job to get his body between it and Sharrar, and he did it wonderfully," Bradley said.

All five of Duke's starters scored in the double figures: Jim Newcome 20, Bob Vernon 18, Schmidt and Buckley Allen 12 each and Bobby Joe Harris 10.

Bob Smith paced West Virginia with 24 points, followed by Jerry West with 20.

REMAINS ACTIVE NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y. — (NEA) — Jess Arnette, former Penn State basketball star, is a member of the New Rochelle Recreation Commission. He is recently out of the Air Force.

In his opinion, a player should be brought up through the minors—from a lower classification to a higher classification. This Wrigley maintained, "would keep money in baseball, not take it out—in the form of huge bonuses to promising young men."

Wrigley said: "All of the money in the world will not win a pennant. Tom Yawkey (owner) of the Boston Red Sox found that out. He spent hundreds of thousands of dollars."

"Nor is the farm system the answer. Today, when a player is any good, he is sent to the majors immediately. If the minors controlled the players, they could peddle him for enough money to keep them in business and in turn, would give those leagues better baseball."

Wrigley said the present draft system "has too many loopholes."

The revised plan allows a major league team to draft any player from the minors who has had four years service. If a player is in Class B, C or D ball, he is eligible after two years. Any player in Class A ball can be drafted after three years. "This is unworkable," Wrigley said, "because a team can just keep moving the player up to a higher classification every year. If he hasn't reached the majors after four years, then nobody wants him anyway."

Wrigley laughed at the old draft plan which enabled the last-place club in the league, in alternating years, to draft somebody. He said: "A team would place all its minor league stars on one farm team and would lose only one player."

WINTER CARNIVAL HANOVER, N. H. — (NEA) — Eight ski, six hockey and several basketball and swimming teams will compete in the Winter Carnival at Dartmouth, Jan. 30-Feb. 1.

Campanella Critical After Auto Mishap

Dodger Receiver Breaks Neck, Career Seen Ended

GLEN COVE, N. Y. — (AP)—Los Angeles Dodger catcher Roy Campanella suffered a fractured neck early today when his car skidded, overturned and crashed into a pole. His condition was termed critical.

Campanella, conscious but apparently paralyzed from a pinched nerve in his spinal cord, discussed the situation calmly with doctors. Told an immediate operation was believed needed, he replied:

"Whatever you fellows think is necessary."

The operation was described as a laminectomy, a procedure to relieve pressure from the fracture on the spinal cord. No other injury was immediately apparent.

Pinned For Half-Hour The accident occurred at 3:30 a. m. on a Glen Cove street not far from his home. He was pinned in the wreckage for half an hour.

The word was relayed to Dodger officials in Los Angeles, where the club was moved from Brooklyn.

Club Vice President Buddy Bavasi voiced great concern over the ace catcher's latest misfortune.

The 36-year-old Campanella, who has been beset by injuries of one kind or another during his long baseball career, was returning alone to his home here after a New York television appearance when the mishap occurred.

The crash made noise so great

heard the crash outside his home, and was the first person on the scene, told International News Service:

"Campanella was thrown from the driver's side of the car to the passenger side and was pinned on the passenger side all up in a little ball and had to stay

State Seeks Series Sweep With Potomac

By The Associated Press
Tonight four State Conference teams will go out on the courts, but all will be pitted against out-of-state schools.
Wilderforce University will come to West Virginia State at Institute, to try to add an 11th loss to the number the college has run up in its 17 games to date.
Concord (4-12) will journey to Emory, Va., to take on Emory and Henry, Potomac State (3-10) will stay home for its game with Frostburg, Md., and Shepherd will receive the Connecticut State Teachers College at Shepherdstown.
Last night's 14th straight State Conference victory by West Virginia Wesleyan — over Salem, by a score of 94-46 — topped the card of four games.

Tech Idle
After being tied at 6-6 and 8-8, Wesleyan pulled ahead for keeps, running up to 45-25 at the half and going on from there, with most of the work being done by Bill Bauserman, who claimed 22 points. The victory put Wesleyan two games ahead of the conference's other unbeaten member, second-place W.Va. Tech, whose record remained at 12-0 as it was idle last night.

Morris Harvey took a firmer hold on third place in the standings by upping its record to 8-1 with a triumph over West Liberty, 74-65.

West Liberty held the lead until the last five minutes of play, then went down to its fifth loss, compared with eight victories, in league competition.

Alderson-Broadbush' conference court went up to 7-9 and Glenville's down to 6-7 through an 82-73 game last night that saw the winner's Charles Haggins and the losers' Bob Reynolds tie for high point honors with 25 each.

Frostburg Seeks Sweep
Wheeling acquired an eighth loss in its ninth game, but not until after showing enough disinclination to do so to make the final score against West Virginia State a close 87-82.

Frostburg State will be angling for the fourth straight win in its series with Potomac State.

Coach Waldon Skinner's Mountain City quint won both games last season by scores of 79-51 and 88-75 after the teams had split even in 1956. Last month at Frostburg the Bobcats captured their third game of the series by whipping the Catamounts, 91-52.

Frostburg State has won nine games and lost three this season. Potomac has dropped three games in a row to Salem, West Virginia Tech and West Virginia State and is now 8-10 for the season with eight games yet to play before the regular schedule ends. Ten more games appear on Frostburg's slate.

Jesse Riggelman's Shepherd Rams (4-0) are scheduled to play Connecticut State Teachers today at Shepherdstown, W. Va.

Antonelli May Leave Giants

NEW YORK (AP)—On the threshold of one trade, the San Francisco Giants today were looking ahead to the possibility of dealing away ace left-hander Johnny Antonelli.

They are now clearing waivers on first baseman Gail Harris and infielder Ossie Virgil to trade the pair to Detroit for Jim Finigan.

Vice President Chub Feeney admitted the deal with the Tigers was just about wrapped up except for the waivers.

Feeney, the last of the Giants' official family still in New York, admitted that the club had considered trading Antonelli.

"Naturally, a lot of clubs want him," Feeney commented. "We talked with a couple last weekend about him."

While no one was admitting it openly, the word was that Cincinnati had offered the Giants catcher Ed Bailey and infielder Alex Grammas for Antonelli, who already has sent back his contract, unsigned. But the Giants would like more than Grammas.

Player Draft Opens NFL's Session Today

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The four-day National Football League annual winter meeting opened here today with the day-long player draft.

Commissioner Bert Bell banged the gavel for the 10-hour job of player selections. Coaches, general managers and owners from each of the 12 pro clubs were on hand for the task.

The first four rounds of the annual 30-round draft were held Dec. 1. That left 26 rounds involving 312 players to be run through today. Commissioner Bell indicated there was a slim possibility the owners might decide to reduce the draft by five rounds.

The reason for this is that the NFL has a contract limit of 60 players with a regular season maximum of 25 men. Thus even if a team signed all its draftees it would have 65 players, five over the contract maximum. It takes a unanimous vote to make the change.

The teams will select in the order of their finish in the 1957 standings from last to first with the championship club last. In the cases of ties the deadlocked teams will toss a coin for first pick and then alternate in succeeding rounds.

After the draft, the owners meet in executive session to take up such matters as congressional recommendations for changes in the league's constitution and by-laws, playing rules, schedules, and expansion regulations. Although the meeting is scheduled for four days Bell says he hopes the business can be wrapped up in three.

Bell said he will recommend the lowest team in the standings each year for 12 years automatically get the bonus pick. Each team would be entitled to win just once. This means the lowest eligible team after the first year would get the bonus.

The owners also will be faced with a request by the Players Assn. for a pension plan.

Moorefield Changes Basketball Schedule

Moorefield High School has announced two changes in its basketball schedule.

Moose Can Cop First-Half Title In City Race Tomorrow

Loyal Order of Moose is within one victory of nailing down the first-half championship of the City Basketball League. The title will belong to the West Siders if they beat Knights of Columbus tomorrow night.

Last night the Moose turned back Old Export, 78-65, at Fort Hill, the losers being forced to finish the game with four players as a result of losing four on personal fouls.

The Old Germans stayed in the fight for first-half honors by finishing their season with a convincing 105-56 conquest of 40 & 8 in the other half of last night's twin bill. The Germans are a half-game behind the Moose.

Actually, the Exports had five players with five personals, but Clay Smith committed his fifth with 23 seconds to go and was ejected. Bob Pence, Paul Fisher, Buck Smith and Gil Moran, Coach Don Liya and Jim Clingan fouled out for the Moose. Fritz Showers rang up 32 points for the Moose on 11 field goals and 10 of 11 fouls. George McGreggor contributed 15 points. Clay Smith with 23 points on seven fielders and 9 of 15 fouls headed the Old Exports.

The Old Germans fired 46 goals through the nets in clobbering Forty & Eight. It was the tenth consecutive loss for the Box Car Society.

Don Moran hit for 34 points for the Old Gees. He racked up 15 in executive session to take up such matters as congressional recommendations for changes in the league's constitution and by-laws, playing rules, schedules, and expansion regulations. Although the meeting is scheduled for four days Bell says he hopes the business can be wrapped up in three.

Archer, Russo To Fight Again

NEW YORK, (AP)—The loser thought he won, and the fans thought it was fun. So matchmaker Teddy Brown said today he will match New York welterweights Jimmy Archer and Danny Russo for a return bout at St. Nicholas Arena, Feb. 24.

The two staged a spirited scrap at St. Nick's last night with Archer, a former longshoreman from the Bronx, gaining a split decision in ten rounds.

Referee Mark Conn and Judge Arlie Schwartz each had Archer, the 9-5 favorite, in front by 6-4 scores. Judge Tony Castellano gave it to Russo on points, 3-5 after he had scored it even on rounds, 5-3. The AP card had Archer ahead, 6-4.

Archer, 22, appeared to have earned the edge on his thumping body punches and stiff left hooks to the head. Russo, who had a winning streak snapped at four, was the better man at long range.

Satisfying Choral Work, Solos Make Tulsa University's Choir Outstanding

The Cumberland Lions Club performed two good services Sunday night — first in sponsoring an outstanding vocal treat for the public and then presenting the net proceeds to the Police Boys Club.

More than 900 people turned out to hear the University of Tulsa Chorus at Fort Hill auditorium despite a competing attraction and none-too-favorable weather.

Under Arthur D. Hestwood, director of choral music at the Oklahoma university, this choral group of 38 selected young men and women has achieved a musical eminence second to none. Many of the finer points of this group's performance are evident only to musicians — such as the finely spun pianissimo, the balance within the choir, the surety of attack, and the almost perfect response to the director's every communication of interpretative control.

There is no deficiency, on the other hand, in the variety of the Tulsa Choir's appeal to the general public. A keen sense of modern song preferences; clever program building; recognition of the popularity of patriotic, folk ballad and comedy songs; the introduction of special effects, and frequent changes in group-arranging combine to win ready response from even the non-musical. Lighting contributes to the changing moods of the program.

In addition to the satisfying choral work, several soloists last night won well deserved acclaim, particularly Miss Lynne Grigsby, whose contralto has an electrifying quality about it. Although showing musical excellence, the male quartet was the least effective part of the current program.

The two-planet accompaniments were invariably of the highest standard. There was much enthusiasm throughout the concert whether the number happened to be a medley of popular songs; ancient and modern religious compositions; "The Nutcracker Suite"; a quintet of Robert Schumann pieces, or a comedy riot such as "Rose, Row, Row Your Boat." "Cumberland", said Director Hestwood this morning before the chorus left by bus for New York, "is our favorite stopping place, and members who have been here before start asking university authorities early in the school year to be sure to include this Maryland city on the eastern tour itinerary.—J.W.H.

Bold Journey Puts Schools In Spotlight

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—Bold Journey (ABC-TV, Monday nights), that excellent program of travel and adventure, is going to school these days.

To mark the enthusiastic reception of the idea ABC-TV today presents a special report entitled, "Bold Journey Goes to School."

There's nothing particularly formal about the plan. Last September the sponsors began sending to teachers who requested it a printed guide that describes each program and some suggested subjects for discussion.

About two million students in 50,000 classrooms are using the guides as a basis for discussing subjects related to the programs.

Dr. Irene Cypher of the Department of Communications in Education at New York University, under whose direction the guides are prepared, emphasizes that "this is not a strict school program." But "it has been a great opportunity for many to discover that study can be humanly interesting," she says.

As an example of how the plan works, take "The Flight of the Blue Bird," one of the best programs Bold Journey has done. There was distributed a printed synopsis of the film made by Neal and Linden Blue on a 110-day flight through Central and South America in a light plane. Appended were suggestions for discussion both before and after students saw the film on television.

Students are under no obligation to their teachers to view the programs at home, but teachers say they have found great spontaneous interest in the idea.

W. Va. Republican Make Clean Sweep

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The Republican state administration, which began sweeping out Democrats on the top floors of the statehouse last January, wielded the broom in the basement recently.

By accident officials stumbled upon cozy living quarters — a two-room suite equipped with bed, desk, telephone, etc. — downstairs.

C. C. Miller, former custodian under the Democrats, said the furnishings were his. He explained that a few years ago his superiors thought it would be a good idea if he stayed at the statehouse in case of trouble at night.

GOP officials ordered Miller to pack up his belongings, but he still has his present job — with the Democratic state treasurer.

Controversy Grows Over Fight On TV

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK — (INS) — NBC never was consulted in the bidding for the Robinson-Basilio fight telecast, which went to theatre-TV via Teleprompter.

Prospective sponsors for such a free-TV fight, understandably hopped up about it, were informed that Sugar Ray Robinson "obviously controls this fight. He wanted Teleprompter instead of the other theatre-TV firm for the last Basilio fight and this time he gets what he wanted."

Among others disgruntled at the way Robinson and Jim Norris quietly fled the fight to Teleprompter and CBS radio is NBC, which wonders why it was spooned to CBS "which threw the fights off TV long ago."

In yesterday's column we said Danny Thomas was aboard Dinah Shore's show Sunday with Frank Sinatra, which, of course, Thomas wasn't — Peter Lawford was. We didn't see the Shore-Sinatra-Lawford show (which Caesar and Coca thoroughly Trended).

Thomas will be with Sinatra and Dean Martin this Saturday, on Club Oasis.

There's been a dearth of bright new young sportscasters but we hear NBC has a dandy in Chick Hearn, a West Coast who's doing the races from Florida these weeks.

The Danny Thomas show had lots of laughs, but Thomas sinks

Card of Thanks

We desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our father, Anthony Turk. Especially do we thank the pastors, those who donated floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral, and to all others who in any way rendered assistance.

DAUGHTERS: MARY, DARLENE, MARIE, GERALDINE

I wish to express my heartfelt thanks to all my friends and neighbors who have been so kind and thoughtful during the illness and death of my wife, Mary A. Cunrod. I especially wish to thank the staff of the Allegheny County Infirmary who took such excellent care of her.

GEORGE T. CUNROD

Mary Haworth's Mail

Editor's Note: Married in years, happily, wife says, couple are dismayed by sex problem.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Tom and I have been married 18 years, have three lovely children, own our own home and have no financial problems. We have many friends, share the same hobbies and our life together has been happy.

We both are in our forties and until recently ours was a contended lot. The subject requiring advice is a delicate one; but I hope that you will be kind enough to advise us.

About a year ago Tom became impotent. His doctor found nothing wrong with him physically, and worry about the condition became something of an obsession with Tom.

Problem Hasn't Diminished Love

increasing the number of Directors come before it, will be held at The alone, for the first time since we married. When he returned he told me that he had turned to other women in desperation, but failed there also. He said this was the first time he had been unfaithful to me in any way, and I believe him. After this frank talk we dropped the subject and have gone on as though the incident never occurred.

Meanwhile, the condition continues and while Tom appears to accept it now, I know he is upset. He consulted another doctor, who also could find nothing wrong with him physically.

Now we are travelling together, and other than for this problem
we are very happy. I know Tom loves me as I love him; and I would do almost anything to help him. Would you please print any suggestions in your column?
Thank you.—F. R.

Man Is Stymied
By Inner Conflict

DEAR F. R.: Since Tom's doctors find nothing wrong with him organically, the next diagnostic probability to check is that he may suffer from psychic impotence.

That is to say, from unconscious emotional conflicts, resentments, etc., in relation to you — and possibly also towards the women who reared him — that finally have "got the best of him" in middle age, as his libidinal drive declines.

Perhaps his sex life until recently was simply a routine expenditure of libidinal vigor, that even negative emotions couldn't blockade. But now that he is growing older and his constitution more fatigued, maybe he is more mental than physical in his response to life.

And on the score of his feelings for womankind, symbolized in his wife, maybe his mind is a jumble of anger, dissatisfaction, and sense of defeatism—of being owned, bossed and led by the nose in the name of "love."

This is the emotional soil in which psychic impotence takes hold, in the middle or later years of marriage — when a man long has felt secretly at odds with his wife, on counts never discussed. Maybe because he shrank from open unpleasantness, or feared her strength, or even because he'd never permitted himself to recognize, much less disclose, his lurking grievances.

Fear Or Hatred
Hinders Sharing

The distinguished analyst
Erich Fromm, in his valuable book, "The Art of Loving" (Harpers) tells us (page 89): "Study of the most frequent sexual problems — frigidity in women, and the more or less severe forms of psychic impotence in men — show that the cause... (exists)
in inhibitions which make it impossible to love."

He goes on to say: "Fear of or hatred for the other sex are at the bottom of those difficulties which prevent a person from giving himself completely, from acting spontaneously, from trusting the sexual partner in the immediacy and directness of physical closeness.

"If a sexually inhibited person can emerge from fear or hate, and hence become capable of loving, his or her sexual problems are solved. If not, no amount of knowledge about sexual techniques will help."

Since you write from a great city where psychiatric facilities abound, I advise you to get first rate analytic help, as a pair, in clearing up the mutual misunderstandings that have brought your marriage to the present impasse.—M. H.

Trio Of Boys
Edit Newspaper

MILFORD, Mass. (AP)—An idea spawned on a rainy day more than a year ago has sprouted into a weekly newspaper—a two-page mimeographed sheet with some 100 subscribers.

"The Crockett" is the brainchild of Charles W. Calceagni II, the 11-year-old editor, and his brothers, Paul, 9, and David, 6.
Three other local youngsters also pitch in on the project.

The weekly contains local items, poetry and editorial comments on the weather, recipes and breezy neighborhood items.
The boys' mother helps with the typing and supervises the final layout of the pages, including its advertising.

The editor, who doubles as subscription manager, reports the paper's income at about $5 a week. The "payroll" is non-existent after the expenses are totaled.

Lost Title

CASPER, Wyo. (AP)—Casper no longer can claim the title of bachelor capital of the United States. Two years ago, Casper let it be known it had more single men per single woman than any other city in the nation. Census officials say the 1957 male population was 17,612, compared with 17,847 females.

Casper's death toll is still a quarter million annually, says the American Cancer Society.

Grand Slam Is Hard To Reach

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
"How should we have reached the grand slam," writes a St. Petersburg reader. "Since I was void of diamonds I merely responded one heart. Then when my partner went to two clubs I jumped directly to six. Should he have gone on to seven?"

NORTH 28
♠ A 3	♥ A J 8 7 6 4	♦ None	♣ A 8 7 5 4

South ♠ West North East	Pass 1 ♠ Pass	Pass 6 ♠ Pass	Pass
Opening lead—♠ Q

The answer to our reader's question is that it is very difficult to bid a grand slam scientifically with freak hands but I think that North might have done a trifle better. After South's two club bid North might have temporized by bidding two spades. South would have gone to three clubs and then North might have taken the bull by the horns and leaped to seven clubs.

He could reason that his partner had shown at least 10 cards (quite possibly 11) in the minor suits and that the grand slam would have to be a good gamble. Incidentally while my reader did not comment on the play of the hand it does require a little care to bring the grand slam home.

The opening spade lead must be won in dummy and the other losing spade eventually discarded on the ace of hearts. Now the ace and king of clubs are cashed in order after which South can start on the diamond suit which he will eventually be able to establish by ruffing three small in dummy.

If South tries a cross ruff he fore pulling trumps he will go overruled in diamonds or hearts in short order. If he starts by ruffing a heart he will wind up without being able to establish either a heart or a diamond for his thirteenth trick.

Decorators Use Era Of Elegance

By International News Service
The hands on the decorator's clock are moving backwards to the era of elegance.

The decorating department of one top San Francisco store features crystal chandeliers, brass headboards, handprinted wallpaper, embroidered curtains of filmy white lawn or muslin.

Upholstery fabrics include rich damasks with subtle over-all patterns; lamps have straight, classic lines, and old prints in plain frames recall the days of the formal parlor.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Cotton Patch Pockets Help At Barbecues

Early autumn breezes won't bother you at that outdoor barbecue if colorful cotton patches are sewn to your washable cotton tablecloth at each place setting. These "pockets" will hold napkins, silverware, and anything else that could possibly blow away.

Del. Jacob Berkson of Washington County expressed the belief that several organizations have been "sold a bill of goods" inducing them to take a stand against the federal park. He declared that the history of every national park has been a fight between the public good and private interests in the past, and urged continued efforts on the part of Canal Club members to interest more persons in the federal development of the canal.

Other speakers included the club's president, C. A. Myers, and Abner Kaplan.

CHARLESTON (AP) — The House Democratic leadership is going to introduce bills to provide a salary increase of about five million dollars for teachers, Speaker Flannery (D-Logan) said today.

Flannery said tax bills to raise the five million dollars a year probably will be introduced tomorrow. He did not disclose what tax measures would be proposed.

Five million dollars will be enough to give teachers a salary raise averaging about $30 a month, Flannery estimated.

He said the fact that the House Democratic leadership is introducing the program does not necessarily mean it has won the approval of the chamber's Democratic majority.

The teachers salary proposal is in addition to the joint program agreed on by the Democratic leadership of both houses, part of which already has been approved by Democratic caucuses of the two chambers. The Senate Democratic leadership is not a party to salary raise proposal.

The first phase of the agreed joint program involves a property reassessment effort to help counties raise more money for schools at the local level.

That much of a program originated by leaders of the Democratic majorities of the two houses was revealed late yesterday by Senate President Bean (D-Hardy) and House Speaker Flannery (D-Logan).

Their proposal calls for appropriating $1,750,000 a year for three years to pay 90 per cent of the cost of real and personal property re-assessment programs in counties willing to bear the remaining 10 per cent of the cost.

Not only would the program mean more local funds for schools, it also would mean more for county courts and municipalities, which also share in local property tax levies, Bean and Flannery estimated.

They said they recommended the program to Democratic caucuses in their respective houses and received approval.

There was more to come today. In still another caucus, House Democrats were to take up further proposals which already had been presented to a majority caucus on the Senate side.

Those proposals were not officially disclosed in advance of the House caucus, except that they included tax measures to help the West Virginia University Medical Center out of its financial plight and raise the $1,750,000 a year for the re-assessment program.

While there was no official disclosure, various "leaks" provided a general picture of the additional items in the program developed in a long series of meetings between Bean, Flannery and other Senate and House Democratic leaders.

The amount contemplated for the medical center was variously reported at two million and 2½ million dollars. There also was understood to be another $500,000 item for education, possibly for improvement of university and college faculty salaries.
